Learns mother 'alive' in Russia

Dream comes true for onetime war waif

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Thirty-three years ago, 14-year-old Sonja Canzewa was taken from her Russian village, shipped by cattle car to a Nazi labor camp and later told her family had died.

Last March, at a Red Cross worker's suggestion, she sent a letter to her Ukranian hometown to find out for sure about her family.

"I mailed the letter the next day. I kept praying and hoping God would answer my prayers that some of them would be alive and I would get an answer soon," Sonja Danzewa Moroni, now the 47-year-old wife of a retired Army career man, said in an interview.

Three weeks later, she received an air-mail reply.

"When I saw my mother's name on the return address, I broke down and cried and cried," she recalled. "I was so happy. But I wasn't crying from happiness. It was from a terrible deep down sorrow because all this time had passed and we'd lost it.

"When I opened it at last, I couldn't read it. I kept getting the alphabet mixed up with English. It wasn't until the next day when my husband got me a Russian-English dictionary that I could make out all the letters.

"My mother said, 'I could hardly believe it was you. We were all so happy. We never gave up. We always said someday, someday we will hear from our Sonja.'"

Since then, she has received 58 other letters from her 70-year-old mother, her brother Wasilly, 44, and her sister Natalia, 54.

She said she has a Soviet visa and is awaiting final clearance for a 30-day trip to Russia to be reunited with her family.

As Mrs. Moroni tells it, her story began in 1942:

She was living on a collective farm at Mischurian-Rog, a Dnieper River village. When the Germans invaded, she was put on a train for Germany. The rest of the family was allowed to stay behind with her father, who was ill with diphtheria.

The girl worked in a German munitions factory with 2,200 other women. She lived in a vermin-infested camp where the diet was black bread and margarine.

The mail from Russia stopped in 1943 when the war started to turn against the Germans. But before then, people in her hometown wrote that her family had been killed. Actually they had escaped.

After the war, Sonja came to the United States, settled in Chicago and married a soldier, Fred Moroni. They moved to Salinas after he was transferred to nearby Ft. Ord, and stayed on when he retired.

Brown pledges 'no new taxes' until people ask for an increase

Wholesale prices up 1.8%—biggest jump in a year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices leaped 1.8 per cent in October, the biggest monthly rise in a year, the government reported today. The jump indicated that inflation remains a serious problem.

Price tags on new model cars, lumber and textile products were particularly significant in raising prices last month, but the increases were spread almost across the board, the Labor Department said. Farm prices also were up sharply but still about half the rise in September.

October's increase in the wholesale price index followed gains of six-tenths of a per cent in September and eight-tenths of a per cent in August and was the sharpest rise since October, 1974 when wholesale prices rose 2.9 per cent.

With a new spurt at the wholesale level, consumers can expect a substantial rise in the cost of living in the months ahead as changes in wholesale prices eventually show up in retail stores.

Over the last three months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 13.5 per cent, up from a 6 per cent rate in the May-July quarter. However, the rate was still less than half the 29.6 per cent rate the three months ended last October before the recession slowed inflation.

Wholesale prices last month were 5.1 per cent higher than a year ago. The index moved up to 178.9, meaning it cost $178.90 in October to buy the same goods at wholesale which sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

Farm prices rose 2.2 per cent last month, a sharp rate but still significantly less than the 4.3 per cent increase in September. This put farm prices 5.2 per cent above a year ago.

Light rain overnight?

A warm front which brought summer temperatures to the valley earlier this week has disappeared. The weatherman now expects some night and early morning showers tonight and Friday.

It's all caused by a low pressure formation moving easterly through the Southland, the National Weather Service says.

Although the sun may burn off the clouds by this afternoon, fog is expected to return tonight, causing some light drizzles. The drizzles may turn into showers in the morning.

The weatherman says daytime temperatures will be in the mid-60s.

WANTS OFFICER FIRED

State Sen. James Whetmore (R-Buena Park) has sent a letter to CHP headquarters complaining that officer Cassandra Etter should be dismissed or reprimanded because of her actions and remarks to him during a traffic incident. He charges disrespectful treatment.

Whetmore wanted officer fired; CHP rejects plea

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state senator says a patrolwoman should be fired because she told him, "Move it on, buddy," but the California Highway Patrol thinks otherwise.

Sen. James E. Whetmore, R-Buena Park, said Officer Cassandra L. Etter treated him disrespectfully Sept. 20 when he rolled down his window to seek directions to the Pepperdine University campus at Malibu. That was the day of President Ford's visit.

In his letter of complaint, Whetmore, said Officer Etter told him, "Move it on, buddy, or you'll get rear-ended! Move it!"

Officer Etter denies telling anyone to "Move it on, buddy," and her superiors support her.

Said Inspector Jerry Clemons Wednesday: "She did indicate there were two cars that stopped and caused a near-collision, and that she did yell for them to move on or they'd be rear-ended."

"She indicated she did not say 'Move on, buddy.' That's not in her vocabulary and she's just sure she didn't say that.

"So she basically denies his allegations other than raising her voice, and said that she had to under the (noisy) conditions," Clemons said.

"Now in those circumstances where we have a citizen, in this case a senator, saying one thing and an officer flatly denying it, well, we can't very well punish the officer just because someone alleges they did something."

Whetmore said in his letter to CHP Commissioner Glen Craig:

"I was most surprised to find a member of the highway patrol acting in this manner, and felt that you might wish to be notified of her rather unusual and completely obnoxious activities and mannerisms.

"As a suggestion, perhaps if this young woman is to be turned loose on society as an officer, she could be dressed in plain clothes so that she would not be identified with the CHP.

"Perhaps I am a bit prejudicted at this point, but my honest feeling is that dismissal would be the best course and if that is impossible, at least some sort of a reprimand."

Officer Etter's area commander, Lt. Robert R. Walker, said, "Officer Etter's actions seem to be reasonable under the circumstances, as her objectives were to prevent accidents and relieve traffic congestion."

Again raps centralized government

TURLOCK (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says he won't allow a state tax increase "until the people march on Sacramento asking to have their taxes raised."

The freshman governor made the promise — extending indefinitely his no-new-taxes pledge for 1975 — during a Democratic party fund-raising speech in the San Joaquin Valley Wednesday night.

"I've set out on a very simple program," Brown told a crowd of 1,500 at the $25-per-couple dinner. "That is to live within the tax revenues we generate.

"There is a limit to what even a rich state can do. We're going to have to find a way to do more with less, to identify those things that aren't working so well and phase them out and put more money into what is working well," he said.

Brown's appearance was his third in a series of at least 10 events planned to help Democratic legislators raise money for 1976 campaigns. The Turlock dinner raised nearly $45,000 for the re election campaign of San Joaquin Valley Assemblyman John Thurman.

Tonight Brown goes to Emeryville to help Democratic state Sen. Nicholas Petris of Oakland raise re-election funds.

The political speeches represent the long-delayed emergence of Brown as Democratic party leader in California. That's a role he has rejected in the 10 months since he took office, often to the vocal displeasure of state and national party leaders.

But his message at partisan fund-raising events is the same one he is giving at nonpartisan events and in Capitol corridors.

Brown may be raising the expectations of Democratic candidates who need campaign funds, but he is still telling audiences to lower their expectations of what government can do for them.

He said in Turlock that government can't do everything that people expect from it. And he won enthusiastic applause with criticisms of centralized government that could have come from the Republican party platform.

"I think that things that can better be left with the families, the cities, the counties and the state ought to be left at the lowest level of government."

In the next few weeks, Brown plans similar partisan appearances in Los Angeles, San Diego, Daly City, the Imperial Valley, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino and Stockton.

Rocky: party hassles prompted move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he stepped aside as a prospective 1976 running mate so that President Ford wouldn't be plagued by Republican party squabbles.

He said he believes Ford "will be nominated and he's my candidate" for the White House next year.

Rockefeller said he has had his differences with the President, as in his support of the New York City aid Ford opposes, but he said these "were not the basic elements" in his political decision.

"If I have basic differences, I speak out," he said.

Rockefeller was vague about his own political future.

He would not speculate about the possibility that he might, himself, wind up as a candidate in the 1976 presidential race.

But he didn't rule it out, either.

And he avoided saying exactly what his role will be in next year's campaign, noting that the new federal election law limits him to a $1,000 personal contribution to Ford, and that the Republican party cannot finance a campaign for presidential nomination.

"I think that he will be nominated, and he's my candidate," Rockefeller said. He also said he does not think the President need worry about the conservative challenge of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But, as for himself, Rockefeller avoided any clear signal of future plans.

"I have no plans beyond this press conference," he said.

Rockefeller began the half-hour, nationally broadcast and televised news conference with a statement saying that party squabbling was the real reason for his decision to quit as a prospective Ford partner on the 1976 ticket.

He said the squabbling made things more difficult for the President when Ford needs to be able to give full attention to national problems.

"I came here to help him and not complicate his life."

But Rockefeller said he instead found himself becoming the issue as his old conservative foes started assailing the prospective ticket.

"The only way I could take the issue out — which was me — was to write the letter," Rockefeller said. He said that when he told the President about it on Oct. 28, Ford accepted his decision without trying to convince him to stay.

Nonetheless, Rockefeller said he didn't think he would have been a liability to the Ford ticket. He said the Republicans who oppose him are "a minority of a minority."

"But it is an issue and a subject of concern to those who are responsible for the President's campaign and nomination," he said. "It's not worth it."

Rockefeller said he has not and will not speculate about the possibility that he might be a 1976 presidential candidate in the event Ford loses early primary elections and is knocked out of the race.

Rocking chair not for her yet; at 79, she hikes in mountains

FRESNO (AP) — Many 79-year-olds get their exercise in rocking chairs; Hulda Crooks climbs majestic Mt. Whitney, the highest point in the 48 contiguous states.

Mrs. Crooks didn't began climbing the 14,494-foot high peak in the Sierra Nevada until she was 66, but she's gone to the top 14 times since.

And she's already making plans for next summer's hike up the 16-mile Whitney trail with its 7,000 feet of vertical climbing.

"A lot of people could do it if they would take their time," she said while here to lecture at a nutrition and physical fitness seminar.

"I just go to enjoy the mountains. I love to philosophize and my walks give me ample opportunity. I see things there that have a very spiritual meaning to me."

Mrs. Crooks, a widow, has long been conscious of the need to stay in shape because she was a health researcher at Loma Linda University. She worked more than 40 years at the Seventh-Day Adventist College in Southern California.

After retiring last year, she continued her previous duties as a full-time volunteer.

"It's better for me to work...it keeps me going," Mrs. Crooks explains.

A vegetarian in keeping with SDA beliefs, she alternately jogs and walks for two miles before dawn each day.

On a hike to the top of Mt. Whitney or along the nearby John Muir Trail "I can walk right along with the others on the level or going downhill, but I set my own pace going uphill," she says.

"I usually carry about 25 pounds for a weekend trip. For an eight-day trip, my pack would probably weigh about 30 pounds."

Mrs. Crooks offered this philosophy to help explain why she took up such a strenuous hobby at an age when most people retire:

"Aging is a many splendored experience. It has a richness of mature life at the summit of the earth."

Hayakawa seeks GOP spot against Tunney

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Republican Party should not be for whites only, says S.I. Hayakawa, who plans to run for the United States Senate.

Hayakawa, retired president of San Francisco State University, said Wednesday that he would seek the GOP nomination for the Senate seat held by Democrat John Tunney.

"I plan to run for the United States Senate," he said. "I will run in the Republican primary."

Hayakawa earned a reputation as a tough administrator in his hardline stands against protesting students and activist faculty members at San Francisco State during the protests of the late 1960's.

A life-long Democrat until last year, Hayakawa chided the Republican Party for failing to support civil rights legislation.

He also took to task the San Diego Republican Women's Club, whom he was addressing, for the lack of minorities in the audience of about 100.

"Why aren't there any more Orientals here?" He said. "Why am I the only one? That's really quite serious.

"One reason the Democrats clobber us all the time is that they go out after the Mexicans, the Japanese, the Chinese and blacks and everybody else. You have to put together a coalition of everybody," he said.

Hayakawa is the third Republican to publicly declare himself a candidate, joining Rep. Alphonzo Bell and Former Lt. Gov. Robert Finch.

Burts appeal conviction in '73 slaying of prison guard, escape

The Fourth District Court of Appeal has under submission the appeals of Benton E. Burt, 32, and his wife Andrea Holman Burt, 21, convicted of aiding the escape of California Institution for Men inmate Ronald Wayne Beaty and of the murder of a prison guard in 1973.

The Burts, following a lengthy San Bernardino trial in early 1973, were convicted of second degree murder, assault with a deadly weapon and assisting in Beaty's escape.

The defendants had been linked to the Maoist revolutionary group Venceremos, believed to have had ties to the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA).

They were found guilty of taking part in an ambush on California Institution for Men car taking Beaty to a San Bernardino court appearance on Oct. 6, 1972. In the ambush Beaty was freed by four persons and a prison guard was handcuffed and shot to death. A second guard was also wounded in the incident.

The Burts, Beaty and the other suspects were finally captured in San Francisco nearly three months later.

The appeals being argued on behalf of the Burts by Benjamin R. Dreyfus, partner of Charles Garry who defended the Burts in their trial, alleges that Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Haldorsen allowed improper evidence to be admitted in the trial. Deputy Atty. Gen. Michael Wellington, appearing on behalf of the prosecution, argued the evidence was properly admitted.

The court is expected to rule on the appeal within 30 days.

Tough L.A. airport noise rule passes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city Airport Commission, despite objections from the Federal Aviation Administration and airlines, has approved an anti-noise regulation opponents feel could be economically devastating.

The new regulation approved on Wednesday requires each carrier at Los Angeles International Airport to reduce by 20 per cent per year the operations of aircraft that fail to meet federal noise standards. The timetable calls for full compliance with the standards by 1981.

Airlines would have a number of ways to meet the standards, including reducing the number of flights, using quieter airplanes, changing flight procedures or modifying engines on older and noisier aircraft.

The Air Transport Association asked the commission to delay action on the proposal for further discussion and study of the measure but the request was denied.

The ATA had warned in public hearings on the regulation that its implementation would curtail air service and seriously harm the Southern California economy.

It also said requiring compliance with the new noise standards would in reality be a demand for engine modifications on all planes not meeting the standards, almost all aircraft except the L1011, DC10 and 747 jumbo jets.

The new regulation goes into effect next March.

Employers of illegal aliens face crackdown

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Federal attorneys are taking a new direction in their fight against the flood of illegal aliens.

They're going after the employers who hire them.

Newly-installed U.S. Atty. Terry Knoepp said Wednesday that a coalition of federal agencies, including the Border Patrol and the Internal Revenue Service, would seek out and prosecute Americans who take advantage of the cheap labor provided by illegal aliens.

"We're going after the employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens and exploit them," he said.

Such employers withhold tax money from the aliens, but keep it for themselves and hold the workers in "latter-day slavery," he added.

Knoepp criticized past federal efforts to prosecute individual aliens caught inside the United States.

"Our efforts to date have simply failed," he said. "It's foolish to waste our time and effort if we can't do something meaningful."

Counties in on trial ride plan

A luncheon will be held Friday in San Bernardino to discuss a two-day trail ride next spring from Bloomington to the Prado Regional Park.

The meeting will be held at noon at the Holiday Inn, 666 Fairway Drive.

It is a cooperative project of San Bernardino and Riverside counties and the Bloomington Saddle Pals.

Officials of the San Bernardino County Regional Parks Department will give a special report on the event, said county Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino.

"The trail ride promises to be one of the outstanding equestrian activities in the area's history. I am personally urging as many elected officials as possible to become involved in the planning stages," he added.

Two accused of falsifying robbery at Pomona drive-in

Two young men arrested in connection with an allegedly phony holdup involving the receipts of a Pomona drive-through restaurant Oct. 23 have been charged formally with the offense.

They are Jay Sheldon Hattabaugh, 23, assistant manager at the In-N-Out Burger on N. Towne Avenue in Pomona, and another employe there, Richard A. Wold, 19, who told police he was robbed.

A third employe, a 17-year-old La Verne youth, has been petitioned to Juvenile Court in connection with the case.

Wold told police that night that he was robbed of the company's night deposit at the rear of the United California Bank branch at 321 E. Holt Ave. in Pomona and forced to drive to Mt. Baldy Road north of Claremont where he was left handcuffed to the steering wheel of his car.

Pomona police Detective Elias Valdez later arrested all three and charged them with staging a fake robbery because they were angry at the company for not closing the Towne Avenue outlet. Some of the stolen $946 was recovered, Valdez reported, but only a small amount.

Hattabaugh was charged with grand theft and receiving stolen property. Wold was charged with grand theft and making a false police report. The offenses are being handled as misdemeanors principally because neither man has been in trouble before, authorities said.

The defendants are free on $1,000 bail each.

Montclair men charged with holdup

Two young Montclair men have been charged in Pomona Municipal Court with robbing a Claremont pizza parlor early Sept. 7.

They are Richard Thomas Budd, 18, and Daniel James Senn, 20, both of 9367 Pradera Ave. The pair were scheduled to return for preliminary hearing Nov. 17 and bail was set at $1,000.

Budd and Senn are accused of robbing the Straw Hat Pizza Parlor at 1065 W. Foothill Blvd. where a young man with long, blond hair gestured as if he had a pistol in his coat pocket and got cash. He was driven away in a station wagon which remained parked outside during the holdup.

Budd and Senn were arrested Sept. 9 in Oceanside in connection with an incident there in which a shot was fired at a police sergeant. They eventually were turned over to Claremont police for prosecution in the local robbery.

They march into Sahara

AGADIR, Morocco (AP) — King Hassan's "March of Conquest" into the Spanish Sahara began this morning, with volunteers jubilantly hoisting the Moroccan flag over a Spanish fort and reaching a point six miles beyond the border in two hours, the Moroccan government radio said.

The Spanish cabinet met in Madrid to discuss the march into the disputed territory. A Spanish government official said the column was nearly a half mile wide and a little over a mile inside the border when the cabinet began meeting.

An eyewitness account of the march, broadcast by the Moroccan government radio, said four Spanish F5 jet fighters continuously overflew the marchers at very low altitude "but failed to intimidate them," and that two Spanish helicopters hovered nearby, observing the progress of the marchers.

The advance column encountered no opposition, the Moroccan radio said. Spain and Algeria had threatened military action and Spain warned that a minefield waited eight miles inside the border of the disputed territory. The Spanish army pulled back eight miles from the border last week.

A commentator who said he was broadcasting from the border said all the unarmed marchers who had massed there before dawn crossed into the Spanish colonial territory near the white-painted border fort of Tah, and soon hoisted the Moroccan flag over its walls.

He did not say how many persons were in the first wave, but said Premier Ahmed Osman and other high-ranking officials were with the marchers. An earlier broadcast said thousands of trucks and buses carried marchers from the tent camps around Tarfaya to the border 18 miles to the south.

Not enough votes for N.Y. loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert said today there are not enough votes in the House to pass loan guarantee legislation for New York City but that the bill's backers aren't giving up their efforts to muster support.

Albert, speaking at a news conference where four New York congressmen announced a cross-country trip to build support for the legislation, also said the loan guarantee bill will not come up for the floor for debate next week as originally scheduled but instead will go to the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill originally was to come up before the Rules Committee on Friday before going to the floor next Tuesday for debate. It now is going to Ways and Means for consideration because of a provision which would make federally guaranteed bonds taxable.

Albert said, however, that the bill should not run into trouble in the Ways and Means Committee. "Mr. (Al) Ullman (chairman of the committee) said to me there will be no big problem as far as he is concerned," Albert said.

Albert said that backers of the loan guarantee legislation have "got some problems — lots of problems."

Referring to the trip by the four congressmen, Albert said the loan guarantee bill would give New York City a chance and would "prevent a domino operation ... (New York) can't go down without repercussions hitting every city and town in the United States.

Pomonan held in robbery shooting

A 22-year-old Pomona man was arrested Wednesday in connection with the wounding Tuesday night of a liquor store clerk during a robbery attempt.

The suspect, Donald Talley, 2224 Belinda Ave., Pomona, was arrested outside a cleaners in the 1600 block of W. Holt Avenue when Officer John Holloway recognized him as one of two men being sought in the shooting. Talley, who police say also is known as Richard Miles, was taken into custody without trouble.

The shooting occurred at the Top Hat Liquors, 565 Dudley St. The victim, Keith Gary Olson, 22, of Claremont, was wounded slightly in one hand and one leg when he struggled with one of the two would-be robbers. A second clerk, Dennis Lon Garrison, 21, of Pomona, also was shot at but escaped injury. Both gunmen fled after the shooting.

Police reported recovering two spent bullets inside the liquor store.

Talley was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and assault with intent to commit robber.

A 24-year-old ONTARIO man will be arraigned today in West Valley Municipal Court on an assault charge after he allegedly struck another man over the head with a baseball bat during an argument at their apartment building at 1433 W. B St. Tuesday night.

William James Antonellis was arrested Tuesday night after Raymond James Palm, 22, underwent medical treatment for a severe head injury at Ontario Community Hospital. Palm was later released from the hospital.

Police said that Palm had been visiting the suspect in his apartment, that both men had been drinking and argued over a stereo.

Hugh D. Butler

Hugh D. Butler, 2751 Mountain View Drive, La Verne, died Monday in Ontario Community Hospital, Ontario.

Mr. Butler was born June 26, 1890, in River Forest, Ill.

During World War I, he won a citation from the War Department for distinguished service in the direction of war work in Washington, D.C.

In 1921, he was stationed in London for eight years as assistant commercial attache for the U.S. Department of Commerce.

He then served four years as head of the Boston office of the U.S. Department of Commerce before returning to Washington, D. C., to enter the first organizational development of the Social Security Board.

This was followed by two years as executive secretary of the Combined Coal Committee of the Combined Production and Resources Board which controlled all war-time movements of coal and coal mining machinery.

Mr. Butler served four years in the Army during World War II, including six months in the European theater. He was promoted from major to colonel.

He also served five years as director of research for the U.S Maritime Commission calculating the subsidies of the U.S. Ship Building and Operation.

Mr. Butler and his wife, Jessie Haver, were married on Dec. 6, 1920. The couple moved to California upon Mr. Butler's retirement in 1950.

He then spent a year in Morelia, Mexico, for his health and returned to a favorite hobby, the study of the pipe organ. He studied government and music for three years at the Claremont Graduate School.

On April 22, 1956, Mr. Butler was chairman of the committee sponsoring the Festival of Faith at Bridges Auditorium in Claremont.

After that, he served four years with the Pomona Downtown Businessmen's Association. Later he was chairman of chapter relations of the 22 chapters of the U.S. Association of the United Nations in Southern California.

This October, Mr. and Mrs. Butler celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

'Vigilante' slaying admitted

TORRANCE (AP) — Three men have pleaded guilty to charges of voluntary manslaughter in the alleged "vigilante" death of a man they believed had burglarized a friend's home.

The pleas were entered before Superior Court Judge Bernard Lawler, who set Nov. 26 for sentencing Robert Whalley, 30, of Redondo Beach, and Gordon D. Brucker, 34, of Lawndale. The judge set Dec. 1 for sentencing the third man, John Nemeth, 30.

The men face terms of one to 15 years in state prison.

They were charged in the death of Joseph Arce, 26, of Gardena, who was thrown over a cliff at Palos Verdes last June.

He allegedly had stolen a number of items from the home of Whalley's former wife.

Home loan rates take new drop

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Home loan rates in the metropolitan area have registered another drop, falling from the 9½ per cent level on Oct. 22 to 9¼ per cent this week.

Spokesmen for area savings and loan associations explained Wednesday the drop is due to a lowering of short-term interest rates, including the rates on investments such as Treasury bills, which compete with the S&Ls for funds in larger savings accounts.

S&L officials said the drop in home loan rates also was influenced by the recent cut by commercial banks of their prime loan rate from 7½ to 7¼ per cent.

Tax cut plan showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year's tax cuts would be extended into next year and, in some cases, even further into the future under legislation facing the final test in Congress' tax-writing committee.

The tax-cut plan lacks a federal spending lid that President Ford insists is necessary for his approval.

In advance of today's showdown in the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said the legislation should survive the final votes, climaxing months of hearings and some fundamental questioning of the nation's tax structure.

The bill's major item is a $12.7 billion plan to continue some 1975 personal tax cuts into 1976. This amounts to an added $2.6-billion tax cut next year compared with the cuts in effect this year. The current tax cuts expire at the end of this year.

The individual tax cuts in the bill would make permanent the 1975 law's temporary hikes in minimum and maximum standard deductions and would create, just for 1976, a new tax credit of 2 per cent of the first $12,000 of annual income.

For example, the bill means that a single taxpayer with adjusted gross income of $15,000 who paid $2,549 in 1974 taxes and $2,519 in 1975 taxes would pay $2,315 in 1976 taxes, assuming deductible personal expenses of 17 per cent of income.

Using the same assumptions, the bill means a married couple with two dependents and adjusted gross income of $20,000 paid $2,660 in 1974 taxes and $2,540 in 1975 taxes and would pay $2,420 in 1976 taxes.

The bill also would extend business tax cuts of the 1975 law through 1980 for the 10 per cent increased investment tax credit and through 1977 for the temporary corporate tax rate adjustments.

The legislation would make tax benefits for child care available to more working parents, expand a tax credit system for the aged, boost taxes on higher-income individuals through changes in the so-called minimum tax on the rich and curb various tax shelters.

THE MOUNTAINS ARE GROWING — Corn is piled high on 2½ acres of land near a grain elevator at Yuton, Ill. The community, like others in the grain belt, is stuck with an oversupply of corn because of difficulty in getting enough rail cars to remove the giant harvest. The state agriculture department estimates that 15 to 20 million bushels of corn are now on the ground for lack of storage space with 85% of Illinois' record 1.2 billion bushels harvested.

Guardian angel was following armored truck

BOSTON (AP) — A Brinks armored truck hit a bump in the road and lost two bags of money, $18,001 to be exact. But a trailing motorist came to the rescue.

"Two full money bags fell out and I had all I could do to get the driver's attention," the motorist, Paul Murphy of the Dorchester section, said of Monday's incident.

Murphy pulled the truck aside about 1,000 yards after it hit the bump and told the driver he was missing some money. The driver hailed a police cruiser to retrieve the bags.

Ridgway papers declassified

Warned U.S. to stay out of Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven years before the first U.S. troops were sent to Indochina, then-Army Chief of Staff Matthew B. Ridgway recommended that America stay out of Vietnam entirely or threaten war with China.

Involvement in a land war in Vietnam alone, Ridgway said in an April 22, 1954, memorandum, would divert U.S. military power to "non-decisive local objectives" to the benefit of China and the Soviet Union.

That same month, the Army told the National Security Council, according to the Pentagon papers, "The use of atomic weapons in Indochina would not reduce the number of ground forces required to achieve a military victory in Indochina."

The historical footnotes were contained in Ridgway papers declassified and released Wednesday by the House future foreign policy subcommittee.

Chairman Lester L. Wolf, D-N.Y., said the papers were related to the so-called Ridgway Report made to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower in May 1954, warning against U.S. involvement in a land war in Indochina.

The documents include a May 17, 1954, memo in which Ridgway says Eisenhower should be told U.S. troops would face all of the problems of the Pacific war against Japan "with the additional grave complication of a large native population, in thousands of villages, most of which are about evenly divided between friendly and hostile."

The April 22 memorandum recommends to Ridgway's fellow members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that America stay out or threaten China.

If the United States determines the loss of "Southeast Asia to the Communist orbit to be so threatening as to require the use of allied armed forces," Ridgway said, "the U.S. government, with the concurrence and support of as many of its allies as it can obtain, should inform Communist China and the world of its intentions to take such military measures as circumstances dictate to neutralize the sources of Viet Minh (North Vietnam) military power."

He said the immediate and major source of that power was Communist China.

"With that source destroyed or neutralized," his memorandum said, "the Viet Minh would cease to present a major military problem to the French in Indochina."

Ridgway recommended to the Joint Chiefs that those views be forwarded to the secretary of defense.

"Only under the most extreme circumstances, if at all," Ridgway said, should the U.S. become involved in a land war in Vietnam alone.

"Such use of U.S. armed forces, apart from any local successes they might achieve, would constitute a dangerous strategic diversion of limited U.S. military capabilities and would commit our armed forces in a non-decisive theater to the attainment of non-decisive local objectives.

"The greater the U.S. military forces so employed, the greater would be the advantage to the true sources of Communist military power — Communist China and the U.S.S.R.

"I can see no adequate military justification for such action, nor for the greatly increased risks of general war so incurred."

MISSES HIS BUS — Phil Sanders is comforted by his wife in their Memphis home. Paralyzed from the chest down, Sanders has been told he makes too much retirement money to ride a specially equipped bus to the hospital. The bus is operated under federal regulations.

Handicapped by federal rules

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Phil Sanders was injured when he fell decorating a Christmas tree for a handicapped children's party. Now, handicapped himself, Sanders has been told he can't ride a specially equipped bus to the hospital because of something called "Title 20."

"I don't want charity or anything," the retired riverboat captain said. "I'll pay them. I just need a ride to the hospital."

Sanders, 63, paralyzed from the chest down since 1972 by the fall, has been using the Easter Seal Society van for monthly trips to the Veterans Administration hospital for treatment and checkups.

His wife, who has been working with handicapped people for years, does not drive and is suffering from arthritis. The van, with its special lifts and wheel chair ramps represents the most convenient way for Sanders to travel to the hospital.

The alternative is a taxicab, and Mrs. Sanders says cabs are not equipped to handle seriously handicapped persons.

Sanders took early retirement from the Corps of Engineers to join his wife in her work with the handicapped. Their efforts in teaching swimming, dancing and arts and crafts to handicapped children and adults earned them a state award in 1971.

After his injury, Sanders depended on the Easter Seal Society's transportation program for his periodic trips to the doctor.

Then, according to a society spokesman, something called "Title 20" went into effect. The society receives federal funds to operate the specially equipped vans for the handicapped and federal guidelines say anyone who has an income of more than $525 a month cannot be transported.

"We really have some ironbound rules," said Sam Williams, director of the society's transportation program. "It would place no burden on us to carry him to the hospital.... But the government says you can't haul a person if his income exceeds a certain amount."

Sanders' pension amounts to about $1,000 a month, and he says he is willing to pay for his ride to the hospital.

But Williams said federal rules prohibit that and the society could lose all of its federal funds if an exception were made.

"All I want is a little help for my husband," said Mrs. Sanders. "But if anyone needs it more than we do, we don't want the bus ride. I wouldn't want to hurt anyone or see anyone knocked off on account of us."

THE 'CORRUGAHORN' — Prof. Frank S. Crawford, a University of California astrophysicist, demonstrates his plumbinglike brainchild—the "Corrugahorn." To prove that he could make music on his snakey invention, the 52-year-old teacher played "Greensleeves" and "Red Roses for a Blue Lady," plus other tunes at the demonstration in San Francisco.

Mouse who nibbled way to marijuana and fame is dead

SAN JOSE (AP) — Marty the Marijuana Mouse, who nibbled his way to national notoriety and ended his days a beloved police mascot, has died of old age.

The four-inch-long grey-brown mouse died peacefully in his sleep Tuesday at the San Jose Pet Clinic, where he had spent the last month for treatment of a stubborn skin ailment that robbed him of much of his fur.

"He just wouldn't respond to treatment," Leroy said. "But he was at least 16 months old and that's a good, full life for a mouse his size."

The former field mouse achieved fame last Christmas when he nestled in the evidence room at the police narcotics bureau and conducted nocturnal raids on marijuana stored for use in court cases.

For weeks Marty eluded all efforts to capture him, but officers finally snared him in a trap baited with his favorite snack.

Instead of having criminal charges pressed against him, Marty was whisked to Los Angeles where a UCLA professor ran studies to determine whether the drug had any long-range effects on mouse metabolism.

He was returned a few months later and installed in a special cage in the narcotics bureau, where he lived a life of leisure — with all the pet food he wanted, but no more marijuana.

Marty gained rodent companionship earlier this year when a well-wisher donated a second mouse who was installed in an adjacent cage. But the new mouse, although dubbed Marta Hairy, proved to be a male like Marty, and the friendship remained platonic. Marta died during the summer.

"Now we've got two empty cages," Leroy said. "We'll keep them around here for awhile as a reminder of the good times we had with Marty.

Low-tar, nicotine cigarette laws urged

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the American Cancer Society urged Wednesday that the government enact laws forcing the cigarette industry to produce only low tar and nicotine cigarettes.

Dr. George P. Rosemond, also a professor of surgery at Temple University, suggested that progressive taxes be levied, based on the levels of tar and nicotine in cigarettes.

Dr. Rosemond was supported at a news conference, during the cancer society's annual meeting, by Dr. Jesse Steinfeld, former U.S. surgeon general. Steinfeld said that while there is no safe level of tar and nicotine, and carbon monoxide release, it is only realistic to attempt to reduce the health hazard of cigarettes by setting "maximum levels."

The median level of tar content in cigarettes now is 18 milligrams of tar and 1.25 milligrams of nicotine, and 15 to 20 milligrams of carbon monixide released per cigarette, he said. These could be established as the maximum levels, Dr. Steinfeld said.

Other steps that could be required, Dr. Steinfeld said, would be the use of very porous paper and filter tips.

Beehives are now 'branded'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Beehives are now being branded in California in an attempt to nip in the bud a surge of beehive thefts, says Assemblyman Gordon Duffy, R-Hanford.

Duffy said Monday that "bee rustling" has grown from 354 hives during the first four months of 1971 to 1,626 during the same period of 1975.

With numbers branded into the hives, the state Department of Food and Agriculture is supplying inspectors with up-todate lists of stolen hives, he said.

Convicted bee thieves are being dealt with severely, Duffy said. One thief in Monterey County was fined $1,000 plus court costs, ordered to make $6,500 in restitution, and was placed on probation for five years.

In addition to making honey, bees are used in California for the pollenation of orchards.

Judge denies venue change in sex case

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Superior Court judge has denied a change of venue for a registered sex offender accused of slaying a high school coed.

Judge Robert Conyers refused recently to move the trial of Richard June-Jordan Thomas, 31.

Thomas is charged in the Aug. 1 stabbing death of Mary Ellen Martinez, 15.

His attorney, James Hutchens, had argued that Thomas' case had been prejudiced by pretrial publicity.

He cited an incident at the San Diego County jail in which Thomas was beaten by other inmates after being forced to read aloud newspaper stories about the slaying.

In denying the request, Conyers said the general public has been preconditioned to violence by the "number of horror stories competing for people's interest every day."

The judge also overruled Hutchens' challenge of a portion of the indictment against Thomas which calls for the death penalty.

F. Lee Bailey, left, and law partner Albert Johnson

'Nuts come out of woodwork'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Cases of this sort tend to make all the nuts come out of the woodwork," F. Lee Bailey said of kooks attracted to the Patty Hearst case.

Bailey was telling why he did not press for Miss Hearst's release on bail during her competency hearing.

Bailey told U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter that "events of the past 30 days" had discouraged him from urging her release now.

The events, he explained at a news conference, included "that nut who held up a bank in New York and demanded Miss Hearst's release. We don't need that kind of help."

Bailey's law partner, Albert Johnson, said he still receives occasional threats from a man who claims the power to destroy him with a "ray gun." He said the man once waited for him in his hotel lobby and followed him to an airport.

But Johnson thinks he has that problem solved. When a second man called claiming to have a ray gun, "I told him about the other guy. Now they're after each other."

Pomona school execs retiring

The two top people in the business department of the Pomona school district have announced plans to retire.

They are Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services, who will leave June 30, 1977, and William T. Henderson Jr., business assistant, who will leave in October of 1976.

Rountree said he has not yet had time to plan but "hopes to do a little something, perhaps as a consultant in personnel and collective bargaining."

Henderson said he is thinking about getting a master's degree in public administration and then doing volunteer work for elected officials.

Rountree, who joined the district in 1942 as a teacher, served as assistant superintendent of personnel services from 1966 until being named to his present position last June.

Henderson joined the district in his present position in 1969.

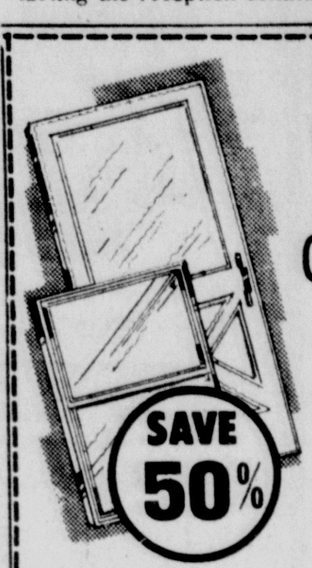

He said he planned to stay until October to "get school opened next fall and get through the "budget."

Adoption of a 1976-77 budget calendar by the school board Tuesday night brought the planned retirements under brief discussion. The discussion included the possibility of expanding the business office staff to include a person to supervise district building projects.

Shell debunks 5 motor oil myths that may be costing you money.

Are you paying more than you have to for an oil change? A lot of people are. They're spending money on "myths."

Myth #1:
Dirty oil must be changed

Just because your oil looks dirty doesn't mean it's dirty enough to require changing.

Shell's high detergent motor oils, for example, can hold over a pound of engine dirt and contamination in suspension before they need changing. So even though the oil looks a bit dirty, don't waste your money. Instead of relying on the appearance of the oil, stick to the oil change schedule in your owner's manual. Don't change more often — or less often — than recommended there.

Photomicrograph of used detergent oil. Just because it looks dirty doesn't mean it needs changing. Detergent oils are designed to hold engine dirt in suspension, so it will drain out at oil change time.

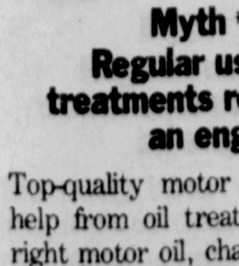

Myth #2:
Regular use of oil treatments really helps an engine

Top-quality motor oils don't need help from oil treatments. Use the right motor oil, change it on schedule, and it will satisfy all your engine's normal lubrication needs.

Read the oil can label next time you change. Service Classification "SE" means that it's right for today's cars. You'll find an "SE" on every can of Shell Super X®, X-100® Multigrade, and X-100 motor oil.

Myth #3:
Oil filters should be changed every time you change oil

Most car makers recommend changing the filter with every other oil change. If you're changing every time, you're probably wasting money. Check your owner's manual.

Shell motor oils. All meet and exceed the warranty service requirements of every U.S. car maker and most foreign cars.

Myth #4:
All-season oils always cost more to use

In some cases, an all-season oil will pay for itself in gasoline savings. In a cold start-up, a 10W-30 or 10W-40 multigrade oil will be thinner than a single grade 30 weight. Therefore the engine runs with less drag and uses less gasoline. In cold-weather short-trip driving, where the engine never really gets warmed up, some drivers may save as much as 3.4 percent, depending on the car and the temperature.

For the Technically Minded:
At a temperature of 30 degrees, a 1975 Ford Granada averaged 3.4 percent better mileage for the first three and one-half miles, and about 1.3 percent better mileage for the next seven and one-half miles. At 50 degrees, it averaged a 2.1 percent improvement for the first three and one-half miles and a 0.9 percent improvement for the next seven and one-half miles. These tests convinced us that some drivers can get better gas mileage by using a 10W-40 oil instead of a 30 weight.

Myth #5:
Motor oil from Pennsylvania crude necessarily performs better

No. Where the crude oil comes from has very little to do with the quality of the finished product. The key things that make one motor oil better than another are how well it's refined, and the additives that go into it.

Those are the things that make Shell's high detergent motor oils good enough to meet and exceed the car maker's tough requirements.

Choose an oil that's right for the way you drive

Before you buy any motor oil, make sure it's right for your car and your kind of driving. You can find it in the Shell motor oil line.

Shell X-100 motor oils are available in single grades SAE 10W, 20W-20, 30, and 40. If you prefer a single grade, use these.

They all meet and exceed the car makers' warranty service requirements.

Shell X-100 Multigrade is an SAE 10W-40 all-season oil. It offers plenty of protection for stop-and-go driving conditions and it doesn't need to be changed with the seasons.

Shell Super X motor oil is Shell's best. Its 10W-50 rating is the widest multigrade range you can buy today. With Shell Super X, you get the advantages of an all-season oil, and high temperature protection for heavy-duty driving.

Teacher in parade top spot

A longtime substitute teacher at Claremont High has been chosen by students to ride as grand marshal in the Wolfpack's homecoming parade through Claremont Friday at 3:30 p.m.

William Hickey was chosen by the Associated Student Body Coordinating Council at Claremont High because "he has so much respect for the kids."

Hickey has a long list of impressive experiences behind him. He was a 1924 graduate at Annapolis and spent 35 years in the U.S. Navy before retiring as a captain.

His first assignment was on the USS Arizona, which the Japanese later sank at Pearl Harbor.

In 1927, as a crew member aboard the cruiser Detroit, he danced with Queen Eugenie of Spain and was commended by that nation for his ambassadorship.

Later he earned a master's degree in petroleum engineering at UC Berkeley.

Upon his retirement from the Navy in 1955, Hickey became dean of the College of Engineering at the Detroit Institute of Technology.

In 1967 at 66, Hickey decided to retire again, but his active life drew him out of retirement and he applied to the Claremont School District as a substitute teacher.

Since then, Hickey has been an almost daily substitute at Claremont High.

Hickey said he thought that by substituting he would have the opportunity to interest young men to consider the advantages

Refugee workers outline vital needs of Viets; biggest one is volunteers

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Community organizations, gearing to meet the needs of Vietnamese refugees resettled in Pomona in September by sponsor Gerald Martin, today are appealing for willing and capable volunteers.

Sue Ellson, director of social services at Pomona Red Cross Chapter, and Marilyn Offutt, coordinator of Community Emphasis for Southeast Asian Refugees (CESAR), have outlined a massive program but need the willing hands to carry it out.

Their plan spans nine major areas: food, available community services, medical care, home management, mini sponsors, transportation, marketing, clothing and last, but not least, Christmas.

Sandy Hester of the South Hills Presbyterian Church is coordinating a Vietnamese Food Cooperative for the volunteers with the objective being to stretch the refugee food dollar, and to obtain food the refugee family will enjoy.

"To get this going," said Mrs. Ellson, "we desperately need the volunteer services of a printer to print membership forms (for those families who want to join the co-op), fact sheets, price lists and order sheets.

"We also need the services of a driver with a truck who could make one trip each week to Los Angeles to pick up food purchased there through the co-op."

The community services which the refugees need to be made aware of are all those from which they could receive help plus all those with which they must deal as U.S. citizens, the volunteers explain.

These include the Social Security Administration and Social Security Disability, the Internal Revenue Service, the county's Department of Public Social Services and the state's Employment Development Department and its Unemployment Service.

It is reported that all of the refugees families brought here by Martin now have been signed up for Medi-Cal and for food stamps. However, the same source said that when they were offered cash subsistence they refused it.

They may receive emergency treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The problem of home management will require numerous volunteers to solve — people who can teach the refugees to do such things as operate a vacuum cleaner, defrost a refrigerator, clean a bathroom and use brooms, mops and other cleaning tools.

Mrs. Ellson and Mrs. Offutt said they had contacted the adult education TV production class at Garey High School about its preparing an educational film on home management to be shown the Vietnamese.

The call for mini sponsors dovetails right into the home management program.

As William L. Braden, executive director of Pomona Red Cross explained, anyone who steps forward to be a mini sponsor may have some out-of-pocket expense for which he or she will not be reimbursed.

"It is not yet clear whether additional federal monies will be paid for sponsorship of these families," Braden explained.

But he and Mrs. Ellson and Mrs. Offutt agree that a one-to-one sponsor relationship would be the most efficient way to ease the refugee families into the community and help them cope with such tasks as housekeeping, shopping and caring for their ill.

"We have a real need for more interpreters," said Mrs. Ellson, "and think perhaps there may be bilingual students in our colleges who would be willing to donate some of their time."

Another need pointed out by Mrs. Offutt is for transportation. "Currently there is no way for the refugee families to get to a market to buy food unless someone volunteers to go with them. We need a lot more of this type of volunteer."

The clothing drive started three weeks ago by CESAR has received good response, said Mrs. Offutt, and the shortage now is in men's clothing.

The need is for underwear, sox, shirts, pants and warm jackets in boys' sizes 14 to 20.

CESAR's clothing collection center is the Bethel Baptist Church at 312 E. 10th St., Pomona. It is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"For those who feel they can make contributions, we also still need blankets (many of the families do not have enough bedding), for used vacuum cleaners and for brooms, mops and mop buckets," said Mrs. Offutt.

Looking ahead in hopes of providing presents and food for the refugee families' first Christmas in their new homeland, the Red Cross and CESAR leaders are cooperating with the Pomona Community Coordinating Council and Santa Claus, Inc.

There will be appeals later for toys, games and for holiday food. This list will include American candy (which the Vietnamese children love), canned peaches, pears and pineapple, rice and canned fish and canned mushrooms.

Those who may be able to assist Sandy Hester with printing and transportation for the food co-op may contact her at 623-8602 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Those who wish to contribute volunteer service in any of the other areas, including serving as mini sponsors, are asked to contact Mrs. Ellson at 622-1348 or Mrs. Offutt at 599-6221.

Trick or treater tricked: drugged

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies went door to door Wednesday in a 15-block area of Valinda warning parents of Halloween trick-or-treaters that a neighborhood boy apparently had been given candy laced with methamphetamine, a stimulant commonly referred to as "speed."

The victim, 8-year-old Samuel Sosa, 1277 Millbury Ave., became ill Tuesday and his mother, Mrs. Mary Sosa, thought then that he had the flu. But the next day, when Samuel began complaining of cramps and numbness and later began hallucinating, she took him to Children's Hospital in Los Angeles. Physicians there found traces of the drug in his system. He was released after treatment.

Mrs. Sosa told deputies that her son became ill after finishing the last of the candy he had gathered trick-or-treating Friday night.

PERFORMING HORSE

Cal Poly Pomona student Sue Blackman puts liberty horse Kello Plus through his paces in preparation for the Cal Poly Arabian Horse Show Sunday at 2 p.m. on the campus.

Rare performing horse slated for Poly show

Sue Blackman, 20, a student at Cal Poly Pomona, is probably the only woman in the United States who works a liberty horse in show.

Kello Plus, a four-year-old Arabian stallion from the university's horse unit, is one of only about 10 liberty horses performing in the country.

Every Sunday at 2 p.m. at the university's horse unit grandstand on the campus, the two performers present an act for the entertainment of the public.

The horse executes a series of difficult exercises commanded only by slight movements of Miss Blackman's body or her voice. Kello Plus shakes hands, heels, bows, plays dead, does a rollback and gives an Arabian salute.

According to Miss Blackman, a liberty horse is a rare creature which has a special combination of qualities — refinement, spirit, intelligence and an excellent disposition.

Miss Blackman began showing horses when she was 8 and chose to attend Cal Poly for its Arabian horse program. Although she began working as a student horse training during her freshman year in 1973, it was not until last year that a suitable horse was found which had the liberty horse qualities.

L.V. rejects tough hillside plan

La Verne city councilmen have killed an ordinance that would have prevented developers from scarring hillsides in the city.

The City Council decided unanimously that the ordinance as proposed was "too restrictive" despite strong protests by the chairman of the Commission on Environmental Quality and a recommendation for approval by the Planning Commission.

The action came Monday after Planning Director C.R. Le Gros said present laws gave the city enough control to make sure unacceptable developments would not come into the city.

The ordinance was introduced and given its first reading a month ago. It was brought before the council at the same time as the city staff was processing a tentative proposal by Mar-Jo Development Inc. of La Verne to subdivide 45 acres in Mountain Springs Estates into 90 homes.

The ordinance, if passed, would have allowed the construction of 23 homes, because nearly half of the land was too steep to build on.

"The cost would be prohibitive," Robert Mills, engineer for Mar-Jo, told the council. "Only a millionaire could afford such a place."

But Julie Stewart, chairman of the CEO, pleaded with the council to preserve the hills by passing the ordinance. She contended that the city needed as much open space as possible.

Her position was rejected by Councilman Dan Lopez.

"What the CEQ wants means nothing to me in this case," Lopez said. "There is plenty of open space all around the subdivision in the mountains that are preserved by the federal government."

He was joined by Councilman Frank Johnson who said that the ordinance would make it impossible to develop the area.

"I'm interested in a development that is as good as the present one," Johnson contended. "If we're trying to wipe out a subdivision, then I'm not interested in the ordinance."

Mills said only about 60 per cent of the land was usable. The council suggested he come up with a plan that would provide between 50 and 60 homes instead of the proposed 90.

Planning Commission member Jerry Borges argued that the ordinance was needed not only to protect Mountain Springs Estates but other hillside areas in the city.

But the council decided to abandon final reading of the proposed city regulation, and suggested that in the future the staff present an ordinance that was "more realistic."

LVC marks 85th year at Homecoming

La Verne College will observe its 85th birthday with Homecoming Friday and Saturday.

A Homecoming queen chosen from six candidates will be crowned at 6 p.m. Friday at Founders Hall. The ceremonies will be followed by a student performance of Eugene O'Neill's "Desire Under the Elms" in the Dailey Drama Theater.

Saturday's events will include a marching parade, a picnic lunch, a football game between La Verne and Occidental College, a spaghetti dinner and the Homecoming dance at the Campus Center.

Armen Sarafian, newly named president of the college, will greet students, faculty, alumni and visitors during the football game.

Spaghetti feed to help church

A spaghetti dinner will be sponsored by Pomona Valley Council 85, Sons of Columbus of America, Inc., Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Moose Lodge, 300 S. San Antonio Ave., Pomona.

A portion of the proceeds will go toward construction of a parish hall at St. Madeleine Catholic Church in Pomona during the coming year.

The public is invited to the dinner, with a $2.25 donation required for adults and $1.25 for children under 12.

West End job program gets another lift—$598,599 grant

The West End of San Bernardino County can expect an additional $598,499 in federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds for a period which ends June 30.

This is part of $2.2 million in federal monies recently allocated to the Inland Manpower Association which serves as a clearing agency for San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

The new allocation is in addition to $1,270,196 previously allocated to the West End communities, said San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend, a member of the IMA board of directors.

The West End also received another $300,000 to operate a multi-service center in Ontario, expected to open this month. The center will be used to train and locate employment for the unemployed and underemployed, he added.

Bulk of the new funding will go to the work experience program. This is channeled through the two counties to school districts and cities for hiring of temporary workers.

The remainder is earmarked for classroom training, individual referrals and service to clients.

The CETA program is designed to help reduce employment by assisting the unemployed to find jobs.

Program activities include institutional training, on-the-job training, work experience summer, youth employment, vocational education and counseling, remedial education, job placement services and transitional public service employment.

New briefs

Jury deliberates rape-murder case

The jury in the murder trial of Gregory Thomas began the second day of deliberations today after receiving the case for a verdict Wednesday.

Thomas, 21-year-old Pomona resident, is charged with burglary, rape and murder in the death April 7 of 78-year-old Tessie Fern Williams in her small home in Pomona.

The trial began Sept. 15 in the Pomona Superior Courtroom of Judge Robert M. Takasugi. An unusual aspect of the hearing was the opposing testimony of polygraph operators who were allowed by the judge to testify as expert witnesses, believed to have been a first in California criminal trials.

Thomas, testifying in his own defense, denied killing Miss Williams and said he drove a friend to her home that day in order to pick up the friend's television set. After entering, Thomas said, he found the former missionary nurse dead on the floor.

Ontario pedestrian injured

A 57-year-old Ontario man was injured Wednesday evening when he walked in front of a car on Campus Avenue near Sunkist Street, police reported.

Jose Zuniga Rodriquez of 307 E. Park St., Ontario, was treated at Ontario Community Hospital and later released.

The driver of the car, William Edward Deon, 31, of 926 W. Rosewood Ave., told police that the pedestrian walked out into the street and appeared not to notice his approaching vehicle.

Ceremony will mark the opening of Pomona regional center for disabled

The San Gabriel Valley Regional Center for the Developmentally Disabled will be dedicated at an open house Friday from 2 to 4 p.m. at 250 E. Harrison Ave., Pomona.

The public is invited to the program which includes talks by Rep. Clair Burgener, R-42nd Dist. (Rancho Santa Fe), Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-42nd Dist. (Pasadena) and Dr. Richard Koch, chief of Community Health Services of the state Department of Health.

Also participating will be Kenneth Stewart, chairman of the Advisory Committee for the regional center; the Rev. Mike Gilsenon, chaplain at Pacific State Hospital, who will present the invocation; and Dale Eazell, executive vice president of Casa Colina Hospital.

Burgener and Lanterman have been working to improve life for the developmentally disabled in California, and Lanterman authored the legislation which expanded the regional center program in the state.

The ceremony marks the completion of the seventh and last regional center in Los Angeles County and the 20th and final one legislated in the Lanterman Developmental Disabilities Act of 1973.

The local regional center operates as a private agency but shares common goals and state funding with the 20 other regional centers in the state.

Casa Colina Hospital has been designated by the Developmental Disabilities Program Board of the Los Angeles County as the contracting agency which provided the local building and staffs the center.

The regional center opened to the public in May under the direction of Mrs. Jane Rasmussen and serves developmentally disabled persons and their families in the eastern portion of Los Angeles County. The center is located in a newly remodeled building located north of Casa Colina Hospital.

Through the regional center, persons with substantially handicapping epilepsy, cerebral palsy, autism, neurological disabilities or mental retardation are helped to attain the maximum intellectual, economic, social and health potential possible.

The program focuses on community involvement with the cooperation of health, educational, vocational, social, community and private agencies. A staff of 35 serves 1,100 clients monthly with the 1975-76 fiscal year budget totaling $1.7 million.

The regional center obtains and purchases services rather than provides services for its clients. It also offers free diagnostic and counseling for all persons believed to be developmentally disabled and provides life-long referral services for the individuals.

Euthanasia case major precedent

Everyone wants what is best for Karen Anne Quinlan, the 21-year-old woman who has been lying in a coma in a New Jersey hospital for six months as the result of an apparently self-administered mixture of alcohol and drugs.

The court suit brought by her father, asking that he be permitted to turn off the respirator that is keeping her alive in a vegetative state, has attracted international attention and brought into highly emotional focus the question of how far modern medical science should be required to go to prolong life and, indeed, just what we mean by "life" and when it can be said to be ended.

Because Karen's doctors as well as other expert medical witnesses called in the suit have testified that there is virtually no hope that she will ever regain consciousness, let alone full health, and that her brain has probably been irreparably damaged, many people believe that the only humane thing is to unplug the devices and, as her mother asks, let her die in dignity.

But everyone also wants what is best for society, and in this respect many fear that if the family's request is granted in this case, it will establish a precedent that will open the way to euthanasia — the putting to death of the incurably ill or injured — and from there, to such horrors as the legal murder of the senile, the insane or anyone else adjudged to be unfit to live.

Others counter that there is a vast gulf between positive euthanasia — the deliberate killing of a person who would otherwise go on living, if only in a purely biological sense — and the withdrawal of extraordinary treatment keeping someone alive who would die if nature were allowed to take its course. As testimony in this case has brought out, and as every doctor and nurse knows, this passive kind of euthanasia is far from rare, though seldom admitted.

It is further argued that if the decision not to use, or to cease using, artificial means to prolong life uselessly, hopelessly and indefinitely is to "play God," so is the opposite decision. And while no expense should be spared as long as there is hope, to go beyond reasonable hope is cruel not only to the patient but emotionally and often financially cruel to the patient's loved ones.

The doctors have a saying — far from universally accepted among them — that "thou shalt not kill, but needst not offficiously strive to keep alive."

The lawyers have a saying that "hard cases make hard law."

Whatever the decision in the case of Karen Anne Quinlan, there are going to be others of a similar nature as medical science improves its ability to prolong life, and in each of them, the decision will be agonizing and dissatisfying.

CB keeps on truckin'

Truckers are discovering that two can play at the game of highway dodge-'em.

One of every five longhaul trucks is said to be equipped with Citizen Band radios, which truckers readily concede they use to warn each other about the disposition of police cars. Now some highway patrols are using CB to lure truck drivers into speed traps.

The situation is so bad on one Florida Interstate, writes William Neely in Playboy magazine, that truckers have stopped talking to each other lest police, posing as truckers, fool them by broadcasting that all's clear ahead and they can "put the hammer (accelerator) down."

But if some police are using CB to provoke law violations, others are delighted with the truckers' use of CB, reports Neeley. "If the CBs slow people down even part of the time, it helps us do our job and cuts down the number of tickets we have to write," says a Wyoming highway patrolman.

Citizen Band radio is helping the police do their job in other ways. "When truckers noticed that we had ears," says the superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, "they began reporting intoxicated drivers, wrong-way drivers, stranded motorists and other matters requiring law-enforcement action."

In Ohio, the highway patrol is encouraging truckers, as well as passenger car drivers with CB radios, to report suspicious characters lurking on overpasses. A number of accidents, and some deaths have been caused by people who get their kicks by tossing objects off the bridges at oncoming vehicles.

Thoughts

This charge I commit to you, Timothy, my son, in accordance with the prophetic utterances which pointed to you, that inspired by them you may wage the good warfare, holding faith and a good conscience. By rejecting conscience, certain persons have made shipwreck of their faith. — I Timothy 1:18,19.

Make Pomona Safe

Dear Editor:

Stephen Zetterberg's letter just incensed us! Who does he think he is? We can tell you — he's a criminal lawyer living in Claremont and he has no business telling the people of Pomona to bury crime on the back page.

The people of Claremont too long have tried to tell Pomona how to function. Let's let the people of Pomona run our city. Too many of our city employes live in other towns. If Pomona isn't good enough for them to live in and educate their children in, then why is the paycheck so good? Let's hire Pomona people in public jobs. Let's not listen to Claremont lawyers tell us to bury crime on the back page. Would he let his wife walk alone on the streets of New York City? I wonder.

No, let's quit coddling the criminal with our tax dollars. I believe in trial by jury but costs should be at the participant's expense not at the taxpayer's expense. Take the criminals off welfare while papa or momma lies in jail. We just make it too easy.

Let's make Pomona safe so that our women and children and even our men can once again walk the streets of Pomona. We can be safe in our homes while we sleep or while awake. Our homes can be made safe while we are at home or while we are away. The solution is simple. Take the attorneys' hands out of the taxpayer's cash drawer; back our fantastically wonderful police department all the way. Punish the criminal fast and enough. Expose the names, even the juveniles and his parents and let papa pay the bill when our schools and fences and buildings are vandalized.

The fellow in Chino recently did it right. Commend him, praise him. Let the addicts and the thieves run on over to Claremont to make their way. But let's ring out loud and clear that in Pomona a crime is an offense, punishable and costly and let the criminal stand entirely the expense and punishment he has meted out for himself. — Mr. and Mrs. P.C., Pomona

P.S. Continue to carry "Spotlight on Crime" but don't make it a police blotter. Tell us how many homes are entered each day, how many purses and wallets snatched, how many rapes, how many if at all. We don't need the details on any but the major crimes, but please, let's have a tally of Pomona.

A good start

Dear Editor:

A good beginning would be for the Progress Bulletin to refuse to offer "Guns for Sale" anywhere in your newspaper. — Mrs. J.O. Nelson, Claremont

Afraid to shop

Dear Editor:

We are in agreement with the majority. Punish severely the offenders. Protect their neighbors and publish their names for this protection.

Mr. Zetterberg's letter smacks of one who is trying to unload some property in the area perhaps. His is an unrealistic letter.

So far, we have been safe but we are fearful of going to a store, day or night, because of purse snatching and bodily harm inflicted on the senior citizens in our area. Several shopping centers have been closed because of constant theft and damage. The Pomona Mall is a pathetic sight.

I work at Pomona Valley Hospital and see the beaten and maimed citizens for as little as $10 or less in cash.

Yes, continue "Spotlight on Crime" reports. Continue publishing names of offenders, minors as well as so-called adults. Your reporting is good! Indeed, let us put pressure on the judges to imprison offenders and keep them off the streets.

We, too have been in Pomona 20 years and raised our families here. They are grown up and gone now, half a generation away from the crime fad.

By all means keep up the good work. Thank God we haven't been hit yet. — Mr. and Mrs. E. J. B., Pomona

Police reservists

Dear Editor:

It's obvious that our town of Pomona cannot afford more city policemen to put more men on the streets. So why don't they go into a reserve program like Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. Sure it might cost a small outlay to recruit and send to a good P.O.S.T. approved academy.

But, it will save the taxpayers many, many dollars in added police protection and be a deterrent against crime with the additional black and white cars in the streets. I understand the chief of police doesn't believe in reserves. Why?

Properly trained and accredited reserve officers such as those that go through the L.A. Sheriff's Academy for 26 weeks are good officers. Surely the city fathers, City Council and the Police Department can't be proud of Pomona's crime and homicides this year so far and we have a few months left in 1975.

Maybe you can get something rolling with your paper. I believe the way you are reporting the crime is truly good. It makes the citizens aware of what needs to be done and with the right pressure to the mayor's office and City Council, maybe you can make Pomona a safe city in which to live; A place where you can take your family out for an evening walk without fear. But it will take cooperation from all concerned starting with a neighborhood watch, to police concern and to the City Council backing the program.

Keep up the good work. — Bert Johnson, Pomona

Publish names

Dear Editor:

We're with you. Ignoring the situation will never make it go away. Perhaps if enough people become "uncomfortable" enough, we'll demand that something more specific be done.

For instance, we feel that anyone who commits a felony should have his name published, minor or not. Many of the most vicious crimes committed are by "minors" who have their own special set of rules. — Juan Appel and Philip Borden, Chino.

More leadership

Dear Editor:

I have read the articles about crime in the city. I believe the blame belongs at city hall and with the chamber of commerce. I thought the chamber's duty was to promote new business, but instead we are losing what we have.

A few weeks ago I believe the council approved a $25,000 grant to them. For what purpose was this for? A clean city with a high employment rate makes for less crime, but Pomona is full of areas that are fire hazards and yards that are covered with weeds.

We need offstreet parking at night. I know of areas that the sweeper has not been able to get to for about four years. As to employment, the city and the school district should hire local residents who pay their salaries instead of letting them live and shop in other areas.

I noticed that the man who was named teacher of the year moved from Pomona to Upland. Any job openings in the city or school district should be posted in the local paper and that includes Mr. Wentz's job that is now open.

I am sure that a local person could be found who has a proven record in administration instead of hiring an ex-teacher for this position who knows nothing about management. I read with regret the statement by Jerrold Gonce, the city administrator, that there was nothing inappropriate about Joe Korpsak, his assistant, receiving a salary from two sources, but it is the kind of statement I expect from city hall.

My point is that if we are to deter crime let's start with our city leaders and set a good example. We need better street lights, a cleaner city, and more leadership from city hall, the chamber of commerce, and the school district. — Letter signed, but name withheld by request.

Fear of the homosexual

Dear Editor:

These are days when increasingly we are obliged to recognize people as "persons." NOT as white or black, man or woman, homosexuals or heterosexuals but "persons!"

In Los Angeles at present there is much open discussion of the role of the homosexual on the police force. This despite the possibility there are NOW a number of "hidden" homosexuals on the police force. As well as in the military, government, education, religion, business, professional athletics, traveling salesmen and what have YOU. Actually in all walks of life. Proportionately some of them doing outstanding work as useful members of our society.

It could be the fear of the homosexual grows more out of the connotations of the label rather than the reality — the "person." We might even work with a homosexual and never really know it. And even if we did we might find ourselves accepting him as a "person." A prominent governmental official — a bachelor who lived with another — is rumored to have been a homosexual. If he were it certainly never interfered with his most responsible duties. Nor with his relations with other people. He died a highly respected "person."

The threats of certain types of homosexuals to our young people is honest cause for concern. But the threats of the illicit advances made by heterosexuals to our young people are equally cause for concern.

As a clergyman I have counselled with many troubled homosexuals. Some NOT concerned by their homosexuality which they kept private. But constantly by the possibility public exposure of their being homosexuals would jeopardize their jobs, their careers, their very lives. In counsel I have agonized with the homosexuals who truly wanted to be heterosexuals and tried everything — psychiatrists, clergymen, professional counsellors. Anything recommended. But they were born homosexuals and nothing could be done for them. Not even surgery which they were willing to try. I advised them to be "normal" responsible homosexuals confining their satisfactions to other homosexuals so that society might increasingly learn to accept them as "persons."

I must admit the brash "gay" who has usurped as a synonymn the word "gay" for homosexual makes it difficult for the "normal" homosexual to be so private about his being such, society accepts him as a "person." For that he is. This letter is to emphasize he is a "person." That as a "person" seeking needed and wanted work for which he is qualified he should NOT be refused because he has been "labeled" a homosexual. Contrary to our fears he would be no more a threat to our society because of the few irresponsible homosexuals than are the few irresponsible heterosexuals. Proportionately, of course. — W. Hamilton Aulenbach, D.D., Claremont

Get tough on crime

Dear Editor:

I have lived in Pomona for 55 years. I never thought I would see the downtown like it is. I think it's time for the city leaders to do something about the Mall. Many people are moving out.

We need to get tough on these crimes. We older folks are afraid to go downtown or any place. I'm all for giving our police more money. Maybe we don't have enough of them. — Mrs. L. Bennett

Need to be alert

Dear Editor:

We do think you should continue printing criminal news. If we don't know the dangers, we may be apt to feel a false sense of security. We need to be kept always on the alaert.

We lived in Pomona from 1953 to 1964. For six months we looked for our retirement home and when we saw Pomona, we said, "That's it," a lovely town circled by orange groves.

Due to physical problems, we decided to sell and move into an apartment. It is saddening to see what has happened to it. — Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Squier, Ontario.

N.Y.'s problem a focal point

Did you see that recent Locher cartoon showing a big, long car? Looks like a huge vintage Rolls Royce convertible with a 10-foot-long hood and sidepipes — a great big old gas-guzzling car. On the side it's monogrammed NEW YORK CITY.

Inside are several fat guys puffing on cigars. They've just pulled into a filling station, and the sign on the pump says, UNITED STATES TAXPAYER SERVICE. The big guy at the wheel of the huge-out-of-date car is demanding from the little filling station attendant, "I said FILL IT UP!

Arthur Schlesinger Jr. — now a professor in New York — does not appreciate the attitude of the rest of us toward New York City's troubles.

He has written for the Wall Street Journal a counterattack against what he calls "Main Street's revenge."

He believes that President Ford and the rest of us are bigots, forming a ring around New York City and booing, enjoying the big city's discomfiture.

As an historian he must remember that suspicion and resentment of big cities is not new. Jefferson foresaw, "When we get piled up on one another in large cities as in Europe, we will become corrupt as in Europe."

Emerson called the cities "great conspiracies." William Jennings Bryan called New York "enemy country."

Lord Bryce wrote in 1888 that "the government of cities is the one conspicuous failure of the United States."

So whatever the hinterland response to New York's troubles it is not new, and is probably something less than the "simian rage" which Mr. Schlesinger construes it to be.

From the "hinterland" where I spend most of my time, New York's problem appears rather to be a focal point for a longtime, widespread resentment of government extravagance per se.

New York City is a showcase right now for a fiscal "foolosophy" which allows unionized city employes to blackmail taxpayers; professional welfare parasites to be underwritten by taxpayers, and the rollovers, false revenue estimates and plain lies which have robbed taxpayers of billions of dollars through excessive borrowing to cover up excessive fraud.

That's what we in Muncie and Kalamazoo and Roswell and Pomona and Marietta and Petaluma and Pocatello are fed up with. New York City's deathbed plight—lying there hemorrhaging red ink — demonstrates that our instinct was right. And we are reluctant to get in line to offer transfusions until we're darn sure the city's administrators are willing and ready to get rid of that oversize, overweight, overpowered, fuel-consuming fiscal relic they're trying to keep running.

And get into something they can afford.

Can't convict woman of rape

Dear Ann Landers: I read with interest a recent column in which you informed your readers that it is possible for a woman to rape a man. You cited a distinguished Chicago criminal lawyer as your authority. While it might be physically possible for a woman to force a man to have sexual intercourse with her, in Illinois, as well as in a majority of other states, it is not legally possible.

This law is clearly sexist and provides that a man can be convicted of raping a woman, but not vice versa. I thought you might want to know. Yours Very Truly — Judge Marvin E. Aspen, Circuit Court of Cook County

Dear Judge Aspen: Thank you for your letter which sets forth the legal status of the question as it exists in Illinois and most other states.

The behavioral aspects, however, are quite another matter. My mail indicates that the female of the species has become so sexually aggressive these last few years that, while "rape" may be too strong a word, it describes rather well what goes on in today's society.

Dear Ann Landers: I had a beautiful experience today. I gave a pint of blood. It was for someone who has leukemia.

I had never donated blood before because I thought it would be unpleasant, time-consuming, and maybe even painful. I was wrong on all counts.

From now on I'm going to donate blood on a regular basis. It was an exhilarating experience to know I was doing something to help prolong a life. And, Ann, it didn't take more than 20 minutes. There was no pain or unpleasantness, just a wonderful, warm feeling that I was truly giving of myself. It just made me feel good all over.

Tell people, will you? — O Negative

Dear O: You sound "positive" to me! Thanks for the opportunity to remind my readers that voluntary, non-professional blood donors are in short supply all over the country and they are desperately needed.

Any hospital will be delighted to see you folks. So step right in, roll up your sleeves and make a contribution that could spell the difference between life and death.

My daughter and I did it a few months ago. The orange juice was delicious. So was the hot coffee and sweet roll. And the people who work in that section at Northwestern Memorial Hospital are beautiful!

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is a little different from the kind you must get by the barrelful every day. To put it bluntly I'm fed up with being you.

As far back as I can remember I've been a straight-A student. People assume I know everything. I don't mind so much when girlfriends come to me for advice, but guys, well — that's a different matter.

I'm a normal 15-year-old who wants some male to notice me because I have what they used to call "It" in your day. Instead, all I get is a bunch of guys who come to me with problems about other chicks. I hate it. What should I do? — Ann Landers The Second In Colorado

Dear Ann: Let 'em cry on your shoulder, honey. One of these days some nice guy will discover the rest of you. I promise.

Skid horse still used by loggers

DEAR DR. MILLER: When we stopped to admire this big old horse, its owner told us he was a skid horse. We've been wondering since what he was talking about. I guessed it could mean he slips and slides a lot. He did look kind of clumsy. Does the skid horse do something special, or am I right? — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: As is frequently the case among equines, the skid horse is a specialist. Not in falling down, but as used in the logging industry in pulling fallen trees out to the loading area. While the tractor has long since commandeered most of these jobs, there is still an occasional spot where the skid horse is not only esthetically desirable, but actually profitable for its owner.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When using methaline blue to treat velvet disease in tropical fish, it's obvious you have to use the correct concentration of the drug. I understand that, so used, methaline blue is quite safe for the fish. I'm wondering if there are any other suggestions you can make concerning the treatment and how long it's used. — G.O'C.

DEAR G.O'C.: The methaline blue treatment for velvet disease, while far from the newest, should prove safe and effective, too, provided the tank is free from bottom dirt which would deactivate the dye, and provided a filter is not used which would remove the dye from the water. However, ordinary aeration should be continued if available. The temperature of the tank should range between 75 and 80 degrees F. (24 to 27 degrees centigrade) for a period of seven to ten days.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We know this dog who dropped by for dinner about six months ago is no spring chicken. We're wondering just how old he is. Can you tell by the teeth? We know you can with a horse. — N.S.

DEAR N.S.: The older the animal, the more difficult an age determination becomes. This would apply to both species. The rate of wear on the teeth is not a reliable indication, nor, in the comparatively ancient animal, is the number. As in other species including Homo sapiens, chronological age is not always a reliable indication of physical age or potential longevity. However, the better the condition of teeth and mouth at any age, the better chance that canine has of a long life span.

DEAR DR. MILLER: A.C., my cat, has had a wire loose ever since she was badly scared on the Fourth of July. I kept thinking she'd come out of it, but she hasn't. She spends most of her time hiding in dark corners and will only eat when it's dark and nobody's around. Is there anything that can be done, really, except just wait and hope? She's always been a nervous little cat, but never out of touch until now. —P.N.

DEAR P.N.: A.C.'s blown fuse may or may not be replaceable. If she didn't need help, she'd have handled the job herself by this time. Severe fright in the feline, particularly when she's already on the thin edge, could produce irreparable damage. Fortunately, the feline psyche is reasonably resilient and your cat may still get it practically all together. With an expert's help.

Even Ruth has breaking point

I'm going to tell you today about a friend of mine who sees good in everyone and everything.

If the world were to end tomorrow, Ruth would smile and observe, "Perfect! That's when my charge account billing ends."

You are saying to yourself, "Big deal. A lot of people see nothing but goodness." But Ruth sees goodness in kids.

The other day at a kaffeeklatsch, Mayva purposely tested Ruth to see what she could come up with in the way of positive thinking.

"My daughter said she hated me," said Mayva.

"Thank goodness, you still communicate," said Ruth.

"She has started to drink a lot."

"Cheer up, she could be smoking."

"She is," said Mayva.

"But only cigarettes," counseled Ruth gently.

"She said she's leaving home."

"It's wonderful," smiled Ruth, "to raise a child who can assume responsibility."

"To share an apartment."

"Fall on your knees, it's a girl," sighed Ruth.

"It's a boy," said Mayva dryly.

"Then she'll be fortunate enough to have a man around for protection."

She told me to mail her belongings," said Mayva.

"Isn't that wonderful," stated Ruth. "And to think some parents don't even know where their children are."

"Do you know I found half of my clothes in her closet?"

"To think there are 22 years between you and you both wear the same size."

"Size 16," said Mayva bitterly.

"When the metric system comes, we'll all be in the high numbers."

"She's dropping out of school," added Mayva.

"That frugal little monkey," said Ruth.

"She's reading books on how to find herself."

"People should read more and watch less TV."

"She certainly left her room in a mess," said Mayva, pushing open the door of her bedroom.

Ruth peeked in, gasped, fell back, and in a voice shaking with anger shrieked, "This isn't a room! It's a dump. It'll have to be cleaned before they can condemn it. What kind of . . ."

Mayva steadied her. "Get hold of yourself, Ruth, no one is perfect."

Surgery didn't help feet

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Two years ago my feet began to hurt so bad I could hardly walk. I thought it was my shoes, so I bought several pairs which didn't help one bit.

I went to an orthopedic specialist, and he took X rays of my feet, and I had a large spur on each heel. The one on my right foot was extra large so he did surgery on it. While I was out he shot my left foot with something to try to eliminate the spur without surgery.

Since then I have been in constant pain in my right foot, and I haven't been able to walk on my right heel since the operation. The spur on my right foot was so large he had to take off part of the heel bone. And my left heel is getting worse all the time.

I can walk on my tip toes with a cane, but even then if I walk very much at all the pain is almost unbearable. I take pain pills off and on all the time.

The doctor says it's arthritis in my heels and feet because now my feet hurt all over. He says this happens in about one out of 10 who have surgery. He had me on large doses of aspirin for a while which helps some, but I don't like to take so much aspirin. I've tried all types of therapy, heat, soaking, etc., and nothing seems to help.

What do you think of this? Should I consult another doctor?

DEAR READER — It never hurts to get a second opinion. Ask your doctor to send you to the nearest university medical center for a complete review of your case.

The treatment of heel spurs differs greatly, depending on their location, size and the symptoms they cause. A spur is like a small, boney pyramid with the tip pointed downward. It develops when bone is destroyed or damaged and replaced by new bone. Spurs also occur in degeneration of the vertebrae from underlying arthritis. Arthritic spurs are growths that develop where damaged or degenerated bone is replaced.

On the heel there are two main locations for spurs, on the flat bottom surface, and at the back where the achilles tendon attaches to the heel bone.

There is a tight, tough layer of fibrous sheet of tissue attached to the bottom of the heel bone. When you walk or run it tugs on its attachment to the bone. With strain, and it is more likely if the bone has a tendency to degeneration as in arthritis, a sliver of bone is pulled off where the fascia is attached to it. In the repair process the pryamid-like bone spur is formed. The same can happen where the achilles tendon attaches at the back of the heel.

The pain is from the pressure of the spur into the soft tissue, and it can cause pain in much of the foot. In most cases the best approach for small spurs is to provide proper support to the foot, including the arch, to relieve the pressure on the attachment of tough fascia to the bone. Heat, injections and various foot support are helpful. The idea is to remove the cause of the irritation. When all other measures fail, it may be necessary to remove the spur, and the technique depends on its size. In many cases the heel spur does not need to be removed.

When looking for new work

If you went out to apply for a new job, how much more money would you ask for? Don't answer, too personal. But those executive headhunters who line up employment for job seekers say it's not cricket to insist on more than 10 per cent over your current salary. That's just one more of the numerous rules of thumb best ignored by successful citizens on the way up, I think.

A.—The Pacific. By 25 per cent.

Q.—"IDEALLY, how much longer than the sleeper should the bed be?"

BACKACHE

If you are normal, presumably your back aches. Or at least it aches some of the time. The medical statisticians report that 80 per cent of the U.S. population experiences said low back pain. And they contend that anything experienced by 80 per cent of the population has to be considered normal.

Those specialists who contend they can read character traits from the color of a person's eyes say: Blue eyes indicate an optimistic nature. Gray eyes denote sticktoitiveness plus native intelligence. Hazel eyes suggest a highly active inventive knack. Green eyes reveal a talent for making money. Black eyes show the craving for power.

It's a fact, though, they were the only chief executives who lived in the White House without children thereby. That is, without grandchildren, step-children, adopted children or plain everyday vanilla children. The record shows 180 children have called the White House home, so far.

Jacoby's bridge

Simple raise begs no trouble

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Forty years ago Oswald Jacoby was one of a small group of experts who suggested that when your partner opened the bidding and your hand was worth just one bid, you should use it to raise your partner, if possible.

Today's hand from the spring charity game illustrates this. North's hand is worth just one bid. If he responds one spade he is going to have lots of future problems as South starts to take very strong action with his very fine hand.

If North just raises to two hearts, South will simply contract for the heart game.

A seventh son of a seventh son sitting West can open the ace of diamonds and continue the suit. East will ruff and if he leads back a club, the four-heart contract will be sunk without a trace. Against normal defense South will make four or five. Maybe, even six if a spade is opened and East makes the mistake of playing his king after an honor is played from dummy.

Ask the Jacobys

A South Carolinian wants to know what we bid in response to a one diamond opening with:

♠ KQ76 ♥ A2 ♦ J4 ♣ K9854.

We respond two clubs. With a full opening bid opposite an opening bid we intend to get to game or higher and want to bid as naturally as possible. Hence, we start proceedings by bidding our longest suit.

British paper is critical of Ford's NYC position

LONDON (AP) — President Ford's refusal to sanction federal action to prevent financial default by New York City was denounced by the London Times in Friday's editions as "an act of monumental folly."

Britain's most influential newspaper titled its remarks, "Whom the Gods Wish to Destroy." It declared, "Friends of America can only hope that the President will change his mind at the eleventh hour."

The independent newspaper said, "It is no exaggeration to say that for the financial system of the United States, for the reputation of that country, and for the rest of the non-Communist industrial world, a default could be a disaster. That any President of the United States should contemplate taking the risks involved indicates that Mr. Ford has not grown in stature with office."

The Times said the Ford administration "would be failing to understand the nature of a modern financial system, and the importance of secondary and psychological factors, if it thinks that the damage of the default could be wholly or reliably contained by back-door financial support to a group of banks....

"The City's default will make the position of all other American cities so much harder. The cost of financing their expenditure by borrowing will rise even higher than it has already ... the effects on the financial systems of the world and on the recovery of the American economy could be of the most serious kind."

The Times editorial attributed President Ford's attitude to his "political philosophy" and to his campaign to secure the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1976.

"With his personal and political roots in a community like Grand Rapids, Mich., the President perhaps is not able to comprehend the impact which the default of New York will have," the editorial said.

Sodium often is an enemy

By the Editors of Consumer Reports (Fourth in a Series)

Although sodium is an important mineral in maintaining health, people with certain types of heart disease or high blood pressure may be advised by their doctors to reduce the amount of sodium in their diets.

Limiting salt means limiting sodium (including the sodium naturally contained in many foods). Many people on sodium-restricted diets are allowed no more than 2 grams (2,000 milligrams) of sodium daily — equivalent to about 1 teaspoon of table salt. This, of course, means not only cutting out the salt shaker but also being careful about certain foods. "Sodium" is the key word to look for on the labels of prepared foods. It often appears as "sodium chloride" or "monosodium glutamate." For seasoning foods, commercial salt substitues are available. Because these substitues may be expensive, Consumers Union suggests that you try natural spices for flavoring.

If you're on a salt-restricted diet, Consumers Union's medical consultants suggests that you avoid the following foods:

Bread and Snack Foods: Bread and rolls with salt toppings, potato chips, pretzels, other salted snack foods.

Cheese: Processed cheese, specialty cheeses such as Roquefort, Camembert, Gorgonzola.

Fish: Smoked or salted fish (including anchovies, herring, salted and dried cod, smoked salmon), canned sardines, canned tuna fish.

Meats: Smoked or prepared meats such as bacon, bologna, corned beef, ham, liverwurst, luncheon meats, pastrami, pepperoni, smoked tongue.

Soups: Most canned soups (check the label for sodium or salt), bouillon cubes or mixes.

Spices and Seasonings: Table salt, so-called flavor enhancers (such as Accent), ketchup, prepared mustard, meat sauces, soy sauce, prepared horseradish.

Vegetables: Sauerkraut, pickles, other vegetables prepared in brine (such as pickled beets and pickled peppers).

(NEXT: Save on milk and cheeses)

TENNIS, THE NEW MASS SPORT — Tennis, expanding explosively into a mass sport, generates $1.25 billion in sales of equipment, lessons, new courts and club memberships.

Tennis becomes big business

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You won't find it listed in Dun and Bradstreet, but tennis has become big business.

Once considered a rich man's game, tennis has become a mass sport, with more than 40 million players in the United States. Last year, according to tennis industry figures, the sport generated more than $1.25 billion in sales of equipment, clothes, lessons, new courts and tennis club memberships.

"A couple of years ago I developed an ulcer and that convinced me I had to change my lifestyle," says a 43-year-old attorney explaining why he took up the game. "You've got to have some kind of physical outlet and tennis provides that."

"We have a tennis explosion right now," said Roger Ward, who heads the tennis programs of the Los Angeles Parks and Recreation Department. "It's a sport that gives you a good workout in an hour and it doesn't cost a fortune to get into it."

The growth of the game has strained the nation's public facilities and led to the building of numerous private clubs where players can be sure of getting a court.

"There has been a quantum jump in the number of players in the nation and the number of available courts, both indoors and outdoors, just hasn't kept pace," says Eve Kraft, director of the U.S. Tennis Association's education and research center at Princeton, N.J.

Tennis clubs come in a variety of forms, ranging from "pay to play" facilities which are open to the public and charge only for court time to luxurious establishments with pro shops, fulltime instructors and steep membership fees.

"Pay to play" clubs normally charge between $5 and $10 an hour for court time, with the higher rates generally prevailing at night and on weekends. Membership fees for private clubs range from $250 for limited use of facilities to $1,500 for families. The average cost of a single membership is about $600, club managers said. In addition, members pay monthly dues of about $25 to $60 a month at many locations.

Eric Bruckner, owner of the plush Warner Center Racquet Club in suburban Woodland Hills, traces the tennis boom to "interest on the part of women, which then filters down to the children." His facility, the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi, offers 21 courts, two heated swimming pools, a child care center and organized competition for all ages.

Most club owners decline to discuss how well their clubs do, but Bruckner, a private real estate investor, says the business is "extraordinarily lucrative."

"It's very simple to lay a slab of concrete and realize some revenue off it," says Ward. "People want nice showers too and a place for their kids to play and they no longer go to the neighborhood park, they go to a private club."

Barbara Royden, a Woodland Hills housewife, confirms that her family joined a tennis club "for the children's benefit ... so there'd be some place close by where my boys could ride their bikes."

Membership fees provide the bulk of tennis club revenues, but private lessons and sales from the pro shops are also important, most owners say.

Outdoor tennis courts cost between $15,000 and $25,000 to construct, depending on the type of surface. Even at those prices, builders have been hard put to keep up with the demand.

"There's no question that those in the court construction business have backup orders that will keep them busy for years and years," says Frank Magliato, vice president of the Royal Athletic Surfacing Co. of Westbury, N.Y., the nation's largest tennis court builder.

Sam Weinstock, part owner of Marina Tennis World, a "pay-to-play" facility at Marina del Rey, says a court must be in use 70 per cent of the time in order to be profitable. Marge Anderson of Studio City Golf and Tennis puts the figure at 80 per cent.

A key factor in keeping courts busy is family involvement, club managers say. Many facilities offer juniors and seniors tournaments for that purpose.

"We get all income levels and all professions, but primarily families," says Warner Center club manager Lou Ryave. "The thing that made this tennis club successful and will make or break other clubs is programs. That's where the bowling industry fell down. They just kept building lanes, and people want programs."

The tennis boom has also sparked construction of tennis courts in hotels and apartment and condominium complexes. John Sienold, vice president for sales and marketing at the Biltmore Hotel in Phoenix, Ariz., says tennis is replacing golf as the "businessman's sport." The Biltmore has 10 tennis courts but still has guests waiting at peak times, Sienold says.

One plush condominium complex catering exclusively to tennis buffs is the $10 million Lakeway World of Tennis in Austin, Tex. Built by oilman Lamar Hunt, Lakeway has a swimming pool shaped like — you guessed it — a tennis racket.

Quiz set for aide to Hughes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Investigators from the special Watergate prosecutor's office will question former Howard Hughes adviser John Meier about an alleged connection between the reclusive billionaire and former President Nixon, Meier's attorney says.

The attorney, Robert Wyshak, would not comment Tuesday night on the thrust of the questioning, saying only it was "primarily the Hughes-Nixon connection."

Although declining to discuss the specifics of the deposition, Wyshak said "part of it" would concern alleged contributions by Hughes to Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign.

"Even though the special prosecutor's office has pretty much wound down there are still people there pretty much interested in getting all the details," he said.

Charles Ruff, the special Watergate prosecutor, said in Washington "I'd prefer not to comment" when asked about the impending interview.

Wyshak said no date had been set for the interview but it will be conducted "before the end of the month."

Zoo concerned over lack of births of big turtles

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The world's biggest turtle just isn't having babies, to the chagrin of the reptile scientists.

There are 32 of the gentle giants called Galapagos tortoises at the San Diego Zoo, but not a single offspring has been born in four years.

The possibility of extinction someday is strong, say experts of the lumbering turtles that grow up to 600 pounds and live at least 150 years. But only 38 eggs out of 750 produced since 1958 have hatched.

In a recent news conference, Dr. Thomas H. Fritts, curator of reptiles and amphibians at San Diego's Natural History Museum, suggested the reason—several species are mixed together and males won't mate except with a female of their same genetic background.

The untrained human eye is unable to tell the difference between Galapagos tortoises but another Galapagos can, Fritts said.

Jazz is sweet for big crowd

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, who host the New York Knicks Friday night, lost their last game by three points — but they did it before a record-breaking crowd.

"No one has ever seen anything like this in the NBA," said Coach Bill van Breda Kolff after his New Orleans Jazz beat the Lakers 113-110 Wednesday night before a record-smashing crowd of 26,511.

It was the largest crowd in National Basketball Association history. The old league mark was 20,234 set last April at a Cleveland Cavaliers-New York Knicks game in Cleveland.

Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman said: "I don't think the crowd had any effect on us, but it sure did jazz New Orleans up."

Pete Maravich, who led the Jazz attack with 30 points, said: "If this keeps up, we're going to get 70,000 people in here." The game was played in the $163 million Louisiana Superdome, which can seat up to 76,000.

It was the sixth consecutive victory for the Jazz, now 6-1, the best record in the NBA. Los Angeles is now 4-4.

Sharman said the Lakers got into trouble when Kareem Abdul-Jabbar got called for four fouls early in the game and sat out most of the first half.

"Four quick fouls on Jabbar were the difference in the game because we were a bit shorthanded after that," he commented after the closely fought contest.

The Jazz were in front 62-55 at halftime, but Jabbar came in after the intermission and grabbed 17 rebounds.

Jabbar played the entire second half without another foul, and as van Breda Kolff said, "Once you have four fouls on him, you need an ax to get the fifth one."

New Orleans extended its lead to 66-55 in the third period before the Lakers got moving again and went in front briefly. But the Jazz outscored the Lakers 10-2 in one stretch early in the fourth period and held on for the victory.

Lucius Allen paced Los Angeles with 28 points, followed by Jabbar's 25.

The Jazz led in rebounds 54-46.

CHORUS BOYS Ram linemen get their kicks out of rehearsal for a chorus line number they will do at the third annual Champions vs. Multiple Sclerosis dinner at the Century Plaza in Beverly Hills, Nov. 19.

Rams prep for Spurrier

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Steve Spurrier apparently will take over as the San Francisco 49ers quarterback, a switch which, says Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox "won't change our thinking on defense."

Knox, whose club with a 6-1 record is an 11-point favorite over the 2-5 San Francisco team, admitted, "Spurrier can scramble better and we'll watch for that."

Coach Dick Nolan has indicated that Spurrier, often expected to be the 49ers starting quarterback, will start this week in place of the veteran Norm Snead, who has been intercepted nine times and sacked on 16 occasions, often losing the ball.

Knox complimented his defensive corps at his Wednesday morning news conference saying, "We have the best record in the National Football League. It's been team defense all the way. We've faced a lot of different fronts and coverages but our defense has been tied together.

"They know where everybody else will be and his responsibilities."

At the start of the season, the Rams secondary was suspect yet even after losing two starters, it appears to be stronger than ever.

Dave Elmendorf and Bill Simpson at the safeties weren't suspect, but when Eddie McMillan took over first at a cornerback when Charlie Stukes was hurt and then rookie Monte Jackson took over on the opposite side when Al Clark broke his leg, there were questions.

Both McMillan and Jackson have done standout jobs.

"We knew Jackson had ability, the only thing needed was experience in actual play," Knox commented. "He's getting the experience and he has great jumping ability."

Attesting to the latter is that the 5-11 Jackson worked against the 6-8 Harold Carmichael effectively as the Rams beat the Philadelphia Eagles 42-3 last Monday.

"We played excellent football the past two games," said Knox, whose team a week ago had whipped New Orleans 38-14.

"But we are capable of playing better. We haven't reached our potential."

Defensively, Knox agreed that tackle Larry Brooks has been underrated by the fans, but said pointedly, "Everybody in the league knows how good Larry really is.

"He goes in there and he gets ahold of people."

Defensive end Jack Youngblood suffered a sprained knee in the nationally televised game at Philadelphia and remains problematical for the battle against the 49ers.

And with the shortened period between Philadelphia and San Francisco, Knox said his team didn't put on pads Wednesday and may not put them on today in the preparations for the 49ers.

L.A., Oakland out in front

NEW YORK (AP) — With Halloween behind us and Thanksgiving rapidly approaching, can Christmas and the National Football League playoffs be far behind?

The NFL playoffs Dec. 27-28 will pit the six division champions and two runners-up against each other to battle for the conference championships and, ultimately, Super Bowl X.

Only one team—the Los Angeles Rams—appears to have a lock on a berth at the midway point in the season while two others—the Minnesota Vikings and Oakland Raiders—are almost assured of a post-season berth.

But in the Eastern Division races in both the National and American Conferences and in the American Central, things couldn't be tighter.

The Washington Redskins, Dallas Cowboys and St. Louis Cardinals are tied atop the National Conference East race with identical 5-2 records. Two of the three should qualify with one team winning the division crown and the other moving into the playoffs as a wild card selection.

In the American Central, it's even tougher. The Pittsburgh Steelers, Houston Oilers and Cincinnati Bengals are each 6-1. And only one—the champion—might be playing after Christmas.

That's because in the AFC East, the Miami Dolphins are 6-1 and the Buffalo Bills are 5-2. One will win the division crown and the other could draw the wild card.

Los Angeles is making a runaway of the NFC West. The Rams, 6-1, have a huge lead over San Francisco, Atlanta and New Orleans and, in the final seven games, will play teams with a combined 18-31 record. Take away Pittsburgh and Detroit, the only two squads with winning records, and Los Angeles will meet clubs with a combined record of 8-27.

The NFC Central used to be known as the "Black and Blue Division," but has since taken on a definite purple hue of the Minnesota Vikings, the only unbeaten team in the NFL. Only Detroit, 4-3, can be considered a threat.

Oakland dominates the AFC West with the only winning record at 5-2. Only a collapse by the Raiders would give Denver and Kansas City, both 3-4, a chance.

Based on their respective schedules, Dallas appears to have the best shot at the NFC East title while Cincinnati has the edge in the AFC Central and Miami should be favored in he AFC East.

But that's only what it looks like on paper. And Thanksgiving a

NFL clubs wait for Rozelle

By Associated Press

A federal judge laid down the law but the National Football League owners still appear to be playing by Commissioner Pete Rozelle's rules, as the latest judicial decision struck a blow for freedom for the out-of-work players of the World Football League.

"Professional sports and the public are better served by open, unfettered competition," U.S. District Judge Edward J. Devitt said Wednesday in St. Paul, Minn., in issuing a temporary injunction paving the way for WFL players to sign with the NFL.

Rozelle had issued an edict forbidding players from the defunct league from signing with NFL teams for the remainder of the current season but Devitt said Rozelle's ban was a "conspiracy" or "concerted boycott" against the WFL players "freedom of contract, adding that there was a "substantial showing they will suffer irreparable harm" if they are not allowed to compete for jobs in the NFL this season.

However, Rozelle said WFL players signing in his league must prove they are free of previous contractual obligations, and it appears that the NFL owners are looking to the commissioner for guidance before they begin stalking WFL talent.

For example, a spokesman for the Philadelphia Eagles said he couldn't comment on what his club intended to do about the available WFL players because he hasn't received any instructions from the league office, adding that before Rozelle's moratorium the Eagles were interested in several players from the other league.

In Denver, a Broncos spokesman said his club was looking for "further definitive action" to see what the status of the WFL players is. The spokesman said the Broncos would be interested in talking to Steve Foley, the former Tulane quarterback who was playing his rookie year with Jacksonville before the WFL folded last month.

Then there is the case of Dave Roller, who signed a conract with the Green Bay Packers two hours before Rozelle barred WFL players from joining NFL teams.

The Packers said they also were waiting further word from the NFL offices on whether the court decision would permit them to add Roller to their roster.

Roller, contacted at his home in Anaheim, Calif., where he has been since Rozelle stripped him of his Packers uniform, said he was tired of having to wait for Rozelle's rules.

"I've been told to low key everything and I'm sick of it," said Roller, the only WFL player to sign a NFL contract between the period of the WFL's death and Rozelle's edict. "It's going to bother me the rest of my life.

"Here a guy states arbitrarily that I can't work at my livelihood. It cost me three weeks of games and practices I could have proven myself. It seems un-American.

"Why they didn't let me play in Green Bay I'll never know," Roller said. "I never heard from the league office explaining why."

Rozelle, who testified Wednesday during the three-hour hearing, said, a rationale behind his edict was that he didn't want NFL teams "buying a championship" by purchasing quality players in the final weeks of the season.

"We're anxious to have players from the WFL come into the NFL," Rozelle testified Wednesday. "We just want to know that they're legally free to come in and they're not going to cause us problems."

Rozelle estimated that fewer than 20 WFL players would be signed by the NFL before midnight Nov. 26, the cutoff date assigned by the judge for signing the WFL players.

John Bassett, the owner of the WFL's Memphis Southmen, who threatened an anti-trust suit before Rozelle's edict, agreed that not much WFL talent will be sitting at the NFL's table by Thanksgiving, saying the ruling would not "mean a wholesale signing."

Bassett said he has signed about 20 former WFL players for a possible NFL franchise but refused to divulge the names of the players. He said those players were being paid "and therefore not touched by the judge's ruling."

Bassett, whose attorneys have worked on an NFL application without formally presenting it, also has stars Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield under personal service contracts. The status of these players is unclear.

It is believed that the Miami Dolphins, who hold the rights to the trio of Southmen stars, want Csonka, if he can prove he is free of WFL contractual obligations. Csonka's agent, Ed Keating, said the three former Dolphins were free of their contracts to Bassett, saying the contracts were in force only during the life of the WFL.

Most, if not all, of the 380 WFL players became free agents when that league folded Oct. 22. NFL teams hold negotiating rights to most of the WFL players, meaning they are not free to sign with any NFL team.

Some teams, like the Houston Oilers, say they will be unaffected by Wednesday's judical ruling because they don't have draft rights to any WFL players.

Most teams, however, have rights to some WFL players. But the fear of entangled contractual obligations is causing most of the NFL teams surveyed to wait for some sort of league green light.

"It is so much up in the air at this point," said Kansas City Chiefs Coach Paul Wiggin, "that we haven't had much chance to do anything with it. Once the players have cleared their contractual ties to the WFL there is a chance we could go after them if we want them.

"We're trying to be careful not to disrupt something good that we've got going with our team," Wiggin said. "Anybody that we'd bring in would have to be darn well better than the people we have now who have a right to be here."

One player considered a bluechip prospect is Willie Spencer, the mammoth running back with the Southmen. Spencer is in the enviable position of not having played college ball so no NFL team has his draft rights.

Each NFL team can make a financial pitch for Spencer, which is similar to the position baseball's Catfish Hunter was in last year when he was a free agent and wanted by many teams. Hunter eventually was signed by the New York Yankees for more than $3 million after a frantic bidding war.

Kings' victory will cost Caps

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings, who meet the Philadelphia Flyers tonight, have posed quite a fiscal problem for the Washington Capitals.

The Capitals promised their fans a victory over the Kings Wednesday night in Washington, or every person at the game would receive a free ticket to a future Caps contest.

The score was Los Angeles 3, Washington 1, and the defeat may cost the Capitals nearly $70,000. The game drew 12,527 fans, and at an average cost of $5.50 per ticket, that amounts to $68,898.50.

The Kings' victory marked the third time this season Los Angeles has beaten the Capitals, who have won but 10 games in their last 96 tries.

The win keeps Los Angeles, 10-4-0, tied with Montreal for first place in the National Hockey League's Norris division. Washington's record dropped to 2-11-1 with the loss.

Mike Murphy and Marcel Dionne sparked the Kings win, each having a goal and an assist against the Capitals.

Murphy, whose game-winning score came on a delayed penalty, bounced in a rebound shot by Dionne past Washington goalie Bernie Wolfe.

Dionne scored an insurance goal at 16:04 of the final period, with Murphy and Murdoch assisting. The goal was Dionne's 11th of the season.

Bob Berry had put the Kings ahead early when he scored his fourth goal of the season. But the Capitals' Tommy Williams tied the game in the second period with his sixth goal of the year.

Wolfe, Washington's rookie goalie, turned away 24 shots. He is filling in for the injured Ron Low.

Ron Jones develops into star

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

In only two weeks, Ron Jones has become a star.

The Cal Poly tailback still can't quite comprehend his sudden fame.

Three years ago, he wasn't playing football. Three weeks ago, he was sidelined with an ankle injury as a back-up fullback.

Today, Jones is the Southern California College Player of the Week and the California Collegiate Athletic Association Offensive Player of the Week.

All of the awards have come from his performance in Poly's 54-21 rout over Cal State Los Angeles. Jones enjoyed the most productive day a Poly runner has had this year by rushing for 127 yards and two touchdowns on 15 carries.

The onesided score cut down Jones' attempts. Eleven of his carries were in the first half when the game was still in doubt.

"I never thought I would be receiving awards like this," Jones said when informed of his honors.

The 1975 football season has changed suddenly for the JC transfer from Porterville College.

After having a good spring, Jones was listed as one of the fullback candidates when the season started. However, he only saw action in the closing minutes of the first two easy wins over Chico State and Cal State Hayward.

RON JONES

The road to success actually started with an injury.

Jones sprained an ankle in a practice before the Sacramento State and was on the sidelines for two contests.

The decision to try Jones at tailback was reached during the bye week before the UC Riverside game.

"We knew Ron could run and we needed a big tailback," Coach Andy Vinci said. "We had to put him in somewhere so we decided to make the change and he has been super."

A surprise starter at Riverside, Jones responded with 75 yards and two touchdowns on 14 carries.

In only two starts, he is already second behind Mark Sanders in Poly's rushing statistics with 258 yards and four touchdowns on 38 carries. He is averaging 6.8 yards per carry.

"It was hard to take just watching the games," Jones said about his injury. "I guess I was really ready to play when I came back."

As to the secrets for his success, Jones grinned, "For one thing, we have a good offensive line which is opening the holes for me. The fullbacks have also helped me with some good blocks."

Jones (6-3, 235) played basketball at Bakersfield East High School but never played football until arriving at Porterville.

"I really don't know why I didn't play football except I was timid," he said. "I was afraid to try it."

A brother, Michael, was the reason why Jones finally put on the shoulder pads.

"I went to Porterville mainly to play basketball but my brother was on the football team," Ron said. "He wasn't all that much better than me so I decided to try it."

Like his teammates, Jones is anxious for Saturday's game against North Texas State in the Lone Star State.

"We'll be ready," he promises. "We plan to have a good game against them."

For one thing, Poly's chances of pulling off an upset are much brighter since Vinci and his staff decided to try Ron Jones at tailback.

BRONC BUSTERS — Poly will get an early start Saturday. The chartered flight to Dallas will leave Ontario International Airport at 7:15 p.m. The Broncs will return at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Saturday's kickoff will be at 4:30 p.m. (PST) and 6:30 Texas time. The early start is due to North Texas' Homecoming activities.

Besides all of the other uphill struggles of playing a Texas school on its own turf, Poly will also be fighting a Homecoming jinx. North Texas is 23-5-1 through the years in the games before the alumni.

Poly has outscored its opponents, 59-7, in the second quarter and enjoys a 47-17 edge in the third and 40-28 in the fourth. However, the foes are ahead, 33-26, in the first.

Quotes

"I didn't think the move would help the team at all....I didn't work hard at it. I didn't give it my best shot. I know that doesn't sound like me but I was just stubborn and I didn't accept it." — Pete Rose, the Cincinnati Reds hustling superstar, referring to an ill-fated switch to third base in 1966. His 1975 move to third is credited with helping the Reds win their first World Series in 35 years.

"There's nothing like watching two well-oiled machines." Oklahoma assistant coach Larry Lacewell said after the Sooners and Iowa State combined for 19 fumbles and three interceptions last Saturday.

Sports briefs

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Mike Cordova remained Stanford's starting quarterback Wednesday, but Coach Jack Christiansen left open the possibility of switching to Guy Benjamin before Saturday's Pacific-8 game against Southern California.

"I have no change to announce as of now," said Christiansen, whose choice of Cordova over Benjamin as No. 1 has been booed by home fans at some games during the football season.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran guard Pat Riley, acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers this week, was suspended Wednesday by the Phoenix Suns for failure to report to the club.

"We are not going to let the inmates run the asylum," Jerry Colangelo, general manager of the National Basketball Association team, told the weekly luncheon meeting of the Phoenix Press Box Association.

Riley was obtained from the Lakers on Monday after he had notified them he would play out his option and become a free agent next season.

Colangelo said that Riley had refused to play out the option with the Suns and had also turned down a new contract which provided for a 25 per cent increase over his contract with the Lakers.

In exchange for Riley, an eight-year NBA veteran, the Suns gave the Lakers a secondround draft choice in 1977 and one of two Suns' second-round draft picks in 1976.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Vladimir Shigili and Alexadr Belov, hero of the 1972 Olympics, led the Russians on a 16-1 scoring spree midway through the final half and the Soviet team trounced St. Louis University 73-59 Wednesday night.

The powerful, taller Soviets dominated both backboards and surged from a 48-46 deficit to pull away at 62-49 after trailing through the early going.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Ed Doherty, Holy Cross football coach, announced his resignation Wednesday, saying he would leave his job after the current season for "personal and private reasons."

Doherty, who has coached the Crusaders for five years, was selected the New England Coach of the Year in 1971, his first year at Holy Cross.

The Crusaders, now 1-6, face undefeated Massachusetts Saturday at Amherst.

QUEBEC (AP) — The 1976 Summer Games will be held in Montreal's Olympic Stadium, with or without some "unnecessary trimmings," Quebec Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde said Wednesday.

Contrary to published reports, alternate sites are not being considered, he told the national assembly.

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies released relief pitcher Joe Hoerner and sent infielder Ron Clark and outfielder Mike Rogodzinski to the Phils triple-A team.

BOSTON — Veteran infielder Dick McAuliffe was given his unconditional release by the Boston Red Sox but will continue to manage the Red Sox minor league club at Bristol.

ORLANDO, Fla. — Jerry Pate, fired his second consecutive three-under-par 69 to take a four-shot lead over Gary Koch and Sandy Galbraith in the Professional Golf Association's Fall Qualifying School.

TOKYO — Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., defeated Jose Higueras of Spain 6-4, 6-3 to move into the quarterfinals of the Japan Open Tennis Championship against top-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain.

STOCKHOLM — Arthur Ashe routed Trey Waltke of St. Louis 6-2, 6-4 to move on to the third round of the $100,000 Stockhom Open Tennis Tournament.

Hoople sees few upsets

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Resident Grid Expert

Egad, friends, these beautiful fall days make it very difficult for your favorite prognosticator. The beautiful weather (sans smog) is just perfect for hiking and Mother Nature has splashed the foliage with such gorgeous colors that I um-kumph — find it almost impossible to concentrate on my many duties.

But back to the typewriter and one of my most favorite chores, interpreting the many imponderables of football for my faithful followers.

'Tis not the week for upsets, based upon my findings.

Along the prep way, look for the rich to get richer and the poor — heh-heh — to start waiting for next year as the regular season's end draws near.

In the San Antonio League, the Hoople method forecasts wins for Upland, Damien, Chino and Pomona.

The super Spartans will continue on the track towards an unbeaten SAL mark, disposing of a stubborn Claremont eleven Friday night by a 27-21 score. Chino will stay in contention with an easy 28-7 win over a crippled Garey team, while Upland will also remain in the running for one of those much sought-after CIF playoff berths with a 38-22 rumbling of Ganesha.

And, in the "Also-ran Bowl", look for Pomona to whip Montclair 33-21.

Switching horses now to the Hacienda League, Royal Oak will take over first place all by its lonesome Friday. The Romans figure to best Alta Loma 14-6 while Walnut edges Bonita 12-6, knocking the Bearcats out of an unblemished Hacienda ledger.

San Dimas should be the other H.L. winner, as the Saints will ease past Ontario 21-12.

Chaffey High will stay in the thick of the Citrus Belt League race with a 24-21 triumph over San Gorgonio, while Ontario Christian will preserve its Olympic League title hopes with a 44-0 drubbing of outmanned Bell-Jeff.

In an Arrowhead League contest of local interest, Webb will down La Verne Lutheran 28-14. And, last but certainly not least, the American Christian Minutemen will charge past Liberty Christian 48-24. Egad, I wonder if those two schools will have Miss Kate Smith at the game to sing "God Bless America"??!!

Moving along to the colleges, Cal Poly will travel to the Lone Star State Saturday and will surprise host North Texas — for a while. In the end, the much bigger Texans will hog-tie the Broncos 39-7. I'm afraid that dear ol' Cal Poly is not in the class of Tennessee quite yet, but a tip of the Major's cap to Vinci's crew for showing a lot of courage, if not much else.

Brighter gridiron fortunes will be in store for La Verne, Claremont-Mudd and Citrus come Saturday. The raging Leos will claw past Oxy 33-21, Claremont-Mudd will edge Whittier 21-18 and those talented Owls from out Azusa way will bounce valley rival Chaffey 33-10.

The national collegiate front should be much quieter this week following a deluge of upsets last Saturday.

The Big 2 of the Big 10 — heh-heh — Ohio State and Michigan, will continue on their merry way toward their Nov. 22 showdown by registering decisive triumphs this week end. The Hoople System sees the Buckeyes whipping a good Illinois eleven, 38-7, and the Wolverines rolling over Purdue, 32-15.

Also, in the Midwest, the Miami (O.) Redskins, aiming for a third straight Bowl bid, will thrash Western Michigan, 47-17, in a Mid-America Conference fray.

One of the great Pac 8 rivalries will be renewed for the 53rd year when Southern California and Stanford get together in the Los Angeles Coliseum before a packed house of 94,000. The record for this historic series stands at 33-17-2 in favor of the Trojans and John McKay's lads figure to add to that with a hard-won 33-24 victory over the Stanford Cardinals. You might say — heh-heh — this one won't be for the birds!

Another long-time rivalry will be settled in Baton Rouge when Alabama invades to do battle with Louisiana State for the 49th time. This is not one of the Fighting Tigers' better years so they will do well to hold the Crimson Tide to a 47-14 win. The Tide is rolling again — harrumph!

Now go on with my forecast.

New archery range opens

Archery enthusiasts have a new place to practice their sport with the opening of Oak Tree Archery Park on Brydon Road near Marshall Canyon Golf Course in La Verne.

Designer Larry Gehir describes the new range as the largest and most picturesque in Southern California. The layout features field archery and bowhunter ranges of 28 targets each. Future plans include a campground.

The range is open to the public at no cost week days and $3 per person on weekends.

An archery club is forming. Annual dues will be $50.

Joyce Whorley of Owensboro, Tenn., bowled a unique series last summer. The 36-year-old housewife started with a 92, climbed to 173 then bowled a perfect game — 300.

Kicking around

with Adrian Mercado and Willy Keo

Soccer, to the surprise of many, is very much a part of American history dating back to the 1840's. Ten years after the news of Lee's surrender flashed over the telegraph wires to the nation, Grant was facing charges of heading a corrupt administration.

It was during Grant's corrupt administration that soccer was also corrupted, for in 1875 Yale met Harvard for a soccer match; both teams were probably not very adept at the kicking game which was up to then called football. They agreed to play "rugby rules" which allowed them to carry the ball in their hands and that was the beginning of football as we know it today — touchdowns and all. (What corruption!)

One hundred years later, soccer is having another kind of problem — keeping up with the newest sports revolution. Like the American Revolution whose success was directly related to the grass root acceptance of new principles in the face of nearly unsurmountable obstacles, American soccer is also winning major acceptance directly as a result of the grass root support.

The major problem facing the sport one century after that infamous Yale-Harvard game is that too many parents are shying away from doing their fare share of volunteer work. Why? The main reason is that their kids know more about this football game called soccer than they do. It is less difficult to find volunteers in the ball carrying game called football because parents know, or think they know, more about the game than their players.

Come on Moms and Dads! Get in touch with your soccer league's Regional Commissioner and say that you want to be like a Minuteman or Minutewoman (henceforth to be called Minuteperson) in actively supporting the youth in the community.

The need for volunteers is so great that don't be surprised if you walk away from your first interview with the rank of General.

LEN LINDBERG, AREA "G" CHIEF REFEREE, is inviting everyone to attend the showing of the film "Toward Uniformity of Interpretation". It is a 40-minute color/sound movie related to refereeing.

It will be shown tonight at the Milliken Laboratory, Pomona College Campus, 6th and College (the northeast corner) starting at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome and we would like to particularly invite all sideline referees to attend. Who knows, maybe, just maybe, you might get interested in blowing hot air through a whistle instead of just the mouth.

AL VECCHIO AYSO'S AREA "G" DIRECTOR, reports that all the Regions in his Area are in full swing. He points out, however, that there is an urgent need for administrative assistants at all levels. The administrative workload is keeping the league officials away from the front-line action where they belong.

CHINO COACHES have been attending coaching clinics held by the KICKIN' AROUND dynamic duo. The main purpose of these clinics is to establish a good coaching base from where the new coaches may exercise his or her own creativity.

The six-hour course encompasses every thing from field layout to fun game-related games for kids. It emphasizes that soccer as a game should be fun to play and practice and coach.

LAST FRIDAY, we were more than pleased to speak before 80 Claremont Rotarians on the subject of soccer.

While eating salad we discussed soccer in China 3,000 years B.C. Through the main course we discussed early Roman soccer played with an air inflated ox's bladder. And during dessert, of course, the Rotarians were thanked for their active support of the world's most popular game.

PAST WEEK VICTORIES BY Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd are only adding to the buildup for Monday's clash. Steve Davis' Claremonters are defending conference champs but faltered in a loss to Pomona-Pitzer recently giving the league lead to Charels Seward's team. The showdown on Monday will be played on Claremont's field just north of 6th . . . 2:30 p.m. kickoff. Nobody plans losing this one. It's a Monday, and the playoff pairings will be determined by whomever ends up 1st and 2nd. Make it.

IN THE POMONA VALLEY the AYSO kids went into action with a flourish. Last year's senior division (ages 16-17-18) was decimated this year because of the high school rule which prohibits a player from playing with any other team other than the high school team from November 1st to June 15th. In some cases AYSO players did not register due to the restriction, involving also Division Two's 15-16 year olds.

A number of players have been declared ineligible by the CIF office in Artesia. Some were suspended for "working out" with the AYSO allstars in May for a trip to Germany in vacationtime. There were no CIF games after mid-March! Herein lies the inequity in the CIF rules regarding all-star competition. The last league game was February 28 for schools who didn't make the playoffs . . . and only 22 out of 134 schools made the playoffs which ended March 12th for all high school soccer teams. The CIF maintains no high schooler can play with anybody else till after June 1st . . . which is 13 weeks after all players turn in their uniforms for the season.

Several boys lost their chance to tour Germany because of this rule and several are now on one year suspension from high school play because they "tried out" for a team before June 15th . . . within that 13 week carryover period where the player is in limbo.

If the CIF is organized to foster the development of the high school athlete, why is this 3 month limbo period still on the books?

A CONVERSATION with Chaffey High Coach Serian Stepanian at a recent coaches meeting in San Gabriel proved informative, and interesting. Coming off a winning season last year in the Citrus Belt League Stepanian spoke of former Chaffey players and "where they are now".

Dave Papac and Scott Cunningham took their talents to USC; five found their way to Frits Rosenveldt's Chaffey College squad . . . Tom Rodgers, Marty Lancial, Dave Treadway, Mike Fakhouri and Frank Eastis; Doug Halsclaw is playing for Humboldt State near Eureka; Oscar Marquez went to Chile; Gabriel Asparte is playing in Guadalajara; Jim Lesandak is in the Army and Mike Bustos is at La Verne College.

Stepanian's prospects are the best ever for the coming season and the sport of soccer has really caught on at Chaffey.

Owls risk it all at Chaffey

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

Between Citrus College and an undefeated season and a date in the Mission Bowl Dec. 6 are three opponents which would love to shoot the Owls down.

The first of the three gets its shot Saturday night when Chaffey hosts Citrus in one of the longest standing football rivalries in community college athletics.

Although the Panthers have won only one game in the last eight meetings they lead the series, 21-12-1, dating back to a 30-0 victory in 1927.

Things are a little different now. But the Panthers, remembering the glory years gone by, still give the Owls a tussle.

"Chaffey is always tough on us," says Citrus head Coach John Strycula, who is responsible for turning things around in favor of the Owls. "We always have a hard hitting game with the Panthers."

Of Strycula's seven victories over Chaffey, four have been by a touchdown or less, including a 14-10 cliffhanger in 1974.

"Chaffey's wishbone offense will be the first we've seen this year," Strycula advises. "I don't know if it will present any particular problems, but it could. We will be working this week to stop their offense."

By coincidence, Chaffey Coach Willie Richardson will be working to get it going. "We're going to have to move the ball on them (Citrus) and score," says Richardson, who refers to his offense as the veer-T rather than the wishbone.

The No. 2 ranked Owls are only one of three junior college teams in the state still unbeaten. The others are No. 1 ranked Orange Coast and No. 4 ranked Santa Barbara (7-0).

Should Citrus and Santa Barbara remain unbeaten they will meet in the post season game which has been labeled the Mission Bowl as representatives of the Mission and Western State conferences, respectively.

All this is of little concern to Chaffey which has been struggling through a 2-5 season thus far. The Panthers could just about make their year with a victory over the high flying Owls.

Coach Willie Richardson isn't revealing who his starting quarterback will be for the game. Both Jamie Broecker and Bill Childers have had their moments. Broecker, an Alta Loma product, is the passer. He has completed 33 of 70 attempts for 378 yards and two touchdowns. Childers is the runner with 136 yards on 67 carries.

Running in the backfield behind the quarterback are Jimmy Cleveland and Randy Campbell who are from the Corona area. Both have scored two touchdowns. Campbell has the edge in yards gained, 364-343.

Those statistics are pale in comparison to Citrus' backfield combination. Running backs Herbie Holmes and Roy Prather have combined for more than 1,100 yards with 15 touchdowns and quarterback Herb Daniel has more than 1,000 yards in total offense with 11 TDs through the air and three running.

But what do you expect from a team that is 7-0 and ranked No. 2 in the State of California.

Stags, 'Hens keep it going

Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd soccer teams notched wins Wednesday and turned into the homestretch toward their season-ending clash at C-M Monday.

The league-leading Sagehens, 10-0 in the SCIAC and 11-2 overall, defeated Caltech 5-1 at Caltech. Meanwhile, Claremont-Mudd blanked Whittier 2-0 at Whittier.

It was a "must" game for the second-place Stags (9-1 and 11-1-2 overall) over the third-place Poets. John Pritzlaff scored his 21st goal of the season. David Goldstein scored the other. Roberto Munoz assisted on both.

At Caltech, Fred Herman scored twice and Paul Suter, Phil Weintrab and Tom McEnroe once each for the Sagehens. Greg Decker was in the nets for the Pomonans because Brad Kraft, who has allowed only one goal in conference play, had a class.

Pomona-Pitzer is at Occidental Saturday while C-M travels to Cal-tech.

LaVerne star intercepts four

Hernandez in spotlight

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Rich Hernandez is the latest in a long line of La Verne College defensive players to find himself in the spotlight.

The 5-9, 160-pound cornerback from Chino intercepted four passes last week to earn Leo player of the week honors.

"The DBs' (defensive backs) accomplishments are like the running backs in one way," Hernandez said modestly. "If the (defensive) line puts pressure on the quarterback and makes him throw low percentage passes, you're bound to pick one off."

Hernandez also put in a word for safety Gus Newson, a four-year starter for the Leopards.

"Gus has been my big help," Hernandez said. "I think he's really underrated. He doesn't get much publicity. But he's a big help to me because I can play my man tight knowing Gus is backing me up.

"Nobody recognizes how much Gus gets done until he's not there. But he missed the first game this year and I was really lost. He deserves a lot more praise than he's been getting. He's super."

Like the Leopards coaching staff, the Leo players are really taking dead aim at a conference title this year.

"A lot of people don't think we can win the championship," Rich said. "I think we should. We should be 2-0 right now. Except for a couple of bad breaks at Redlands we would be. But we're still 1-0-1 and right in the thick of it.

"The team is really optimistic and I think we should win it. We're not that experienced overall and we're hurting because our defense isn't what it usually is . . . . letting other teams gain over 300 yards-that's just not a La Verne defense . . . but we've had a lot of injuries and they've hurt us.

"However," Hernandez continued, "our offense has really put it together. This is the best offense we've had since I've been here."

Rich came to La Verne after graduating from Chino High.

"Coach (Jim) Rawls (who played at La Verne) steered me this way," Hernandez said. "I was born and raised in Artesia but moved to Chino in my sophomore year in high school and played my junior and senior years there."

Rich played wide receiver on offense for the Cowboys and defensive back.

"I went both ways as most everybody did," he grinned. "I was honorable mention All-SAL. We were 0-9 that year and you don't get much recognition in a situation like that."

Hernandez also wrestled, at 136 and 138 pounds, and wrestles for the La Verne team at 158. After a year as a wide receiver for the Leo offense, he switched to defense.

"I like defense because I think the defensive players stick together better and work harder," he said. "When the defensive line gets a good pass rush on, I really enjoy myself. If the defensive line doesn't pressure the quarterback, you might as well forget about stopping the receivers from catching passes."

"This year the defensive line isn't quite as good because of the injuries," he continued. We lost Jose Echevarria (mg) and Chris Willits (dt) for the season. George Pascoe (de) has had a bad wheel (leg) and bad neck and Ron Kimball (de) has missed more games."

Kimball, a 6-2, 215-pound junior, is expected to return this week for the game with Occidental.

"Occidental will be very tough," Hernandez said. "They're young and big, really big. But we've played the team (Redlands) that is the toughest and we think we were the better team in that game.

"We're really up for Oxy. And we've been saying we ought to be league champs, so this is another chance to prove it."

Asked what his major in school is, Hernandez laughed.

"I'm a physical education major," he said, "a total jock. Everybody that wants to be a coach goes that way."

Rich's goal is to coach football or wrestling at the high school level. He weightlifts regularly in his free time and loves the outdoors.

"I've been a camp counselor for the socially disturbed," he said. "Worked one year for the Chino Recreation Dept. And right now I'm a security guard on the La Verne campus."

Rich is deeply involved in Little League activities. He coaches the B.T. Automatics (girls) team in the Chino National Little League, a team which his mother manages.

"We're 29-1 the last two years," Hernandez said. "I have two sisters playing. That's why I've been torn away from camp. Girls athletics is really growing. But I'm going to switch to the boys league as soon as my little brother is old enough to play. I want to coach him."

UCR receiver goes for No.1

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — No one can accuse Butch Johnson of lacking self-confidence.

A 21-year-old senior on the University of California-Riverside football team, Johnson has been one of the leading pass receivers in Division II ranks since his first game of the season.

Which is the way he planned it.

"Mentally, this is the first year I believe I'm prepared to play the game," said the 6-foot-2, 185-pound flanker who last year set school single-season records with 50 catches good for 841 yards and seven touchdowns.

"I've separated everything else in my life from football. I'm probably bigger and I know I'm quicker and stronger than I've ever been.

"I set some goals I'd like to reach," the graduate of Dorsey High School in Los Angeles continued. "I want to go for number one in the nation.

"I figure this is my last year, so I might as well go out as strong as possible."

So with that goal in mind, game statistics which to most receivers would constitute a successful year — 67 catches, 1,027 yards and eight touchdowns in eight games — are not enough for Johnson.

Still it gets harder to improve on the totals each week. He began the season with a school record 13 catches for 199 yards and two touchdowns in a 34-30 loss to Northern Arizona, then came back with 12 receptions for 247 yards and another score in a 31-20 loss to UC Davis.

In his last two outings, he grabbed nine passes for 166 yards in a 24-20 victory over Cal Poly Pomona, then snared nine again for 81 yards in his team's 10-7 win over Cal Poly SLO.

"They are starting to double up more on Butch," said UCR head coach Bob Toledo, "and they're giving us the tight end and the wide receiver more. It's unfortunate for Butch, but we've got to take what's there.

"Still, he set those goals for himself, and he's not going to let anything stop him from reaching them."

"I realize I'm going to be picked out," Johnson said. "I've just got to keep my head level and go out and play my game and if they're there, they're there. I can't let it mess up my game."

But Johnson says he doesn't mind that much. "It's kind of a good feeling. It's a good feeling that people are coming to see you perform, people are coming to stop you. The good thing is taking the challenge and seeing if you can out-manipulate them."

No punch for Boston

By The Associated Press

Bobby Orr is a defenseman but what the Boston Bruins are missing is his offense.

It was pointed up, once again, Wednesday night, when Buffalo held the once-powerful Bruins to 16 shots and goalie Gerry Desjardins recorded his first shutout in over six years in the Sabres' 4-0 National Hockey League victory.

With Orr out of the lineup with a bum knee, the Bruins' opponents have been able to concentrate on Boston's other major scoring threat, Phil Esposito.

The result is a feeble Boston attack, which has netted just 37 goals, three more than California in the Adams Division. The Bruins, in third place, now trail first-place Buffalo by nine points.

"I'm embarrassed," said Boston Coach Don Cherry.

Pop Warner teams finish season

The Pop Warner regular season ends in the valley Sunday.

Division champions in the Mt. Baldy Conference's five age-group leagues will advance to the championship games slated for Sunday, Nov. 23, at Chaffey High in Ontario.

Here is a rundown of the championship situation:

Tiny Tots (ages 8-9)

Upland Bandits (6-0) and Ontario Jets (5-1-1) have won their respective divisions and will play in the championship game.

Jr. Pee Wee (ages 8-10)

Diamond Bar Banditos (6-0-1) and San Dimas/La Verne Spartans (6-0-1) have earned the right to play for the conference title.

Pee Wee (ages 9-11)

Pomona Sharks (7-0) can wrap up Eastern Division title by defeating the Fontana Elks in a 2 p.m. game at Ganesha High Sunday. Fontana Lions (6-1) can still tie Sharks. Upland Raiders (6-1) can take the Western Division by beating cross-town rivals Upland Chargers Sunday. San Dimas/La Verne Gladiators (6-1-1) must root for the Chargers.

Jr. Midget (ages 10-12)

Pomona Bruins (4-3) enjoy a full game lead over San Dimas/La Verne Romans and San Bernardino Saints (both 3-4) in the Western Division entering Sunday's final games. Claremont Sun (7-0) must visit the second-place Fontana Wolves (6-1) in a Eastern Division showdown.

Midget (ages 11-13)

Upland Mustangs (6-1) won the Western Division title and will meet either the Fontana Bucks or Ontario 49ers. The co-leaders (6-1) in the Eastern Division meet head-on in Fontana Sunday.

In last week's action the undefeated Pomona Sharks beat the Chino Broncos, 28-6, as Jerry Campbell scored three touchdowns and rushed for 223 yards.

Marc Pruitt added one TD while Kitrick Taylor and Brian Turner contributed extra points.

The defensive line of Richard Spotville, Rodney Sanders, Richard McConnell, Joseph Glenn and George Childs was explosive.

The unbeaten Diamond Bar Banditos edged the Fontana Falcons, 6-0, thanks th Craig Stokes' touchdown.

It was the seventh shutout for the Banditos — the one tie was an 0-0 contest with the Chino Mavericks — with the unscored-upon defense led by Ken Zimmerman, Stokes and Reggie Youmans.

The Diamond Bar Chiefs dominated play in a 27-6 win over the San Bernardino Rebels. Kevin Stuessel scored one touchdown, three extra points and returned an interception 65 yards.

Todd Woods, Roger Panneton and Tony Thomas scored the other Chiefs' touchdowns.

S.D. park projects jell again as state, city aid assured

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Park projects and development in San Dimas are on the upswing again.

Bryce Bailey, parks and recreation director, announced this week that funds for the work at five parks will be provided through the state park bond approved by voters two years ago and the park property development account of the city.

The city was allocated $52,000 from the state legislation that can be spent over a three-year period, explained Bailey. Of that total, $30,000 was allocated to development of Marchant Park and the remaining $22,000 to the park along the 210 Freeway south of Covina Boulevard.

Approximately $16,000 was spent last year for the installation of an irrigation system in half of the 10-acre Marchant Park. The balance is to go to the grading of the rest of the park, completion of the irrigation system and a few minor projects to include grounds preparation, relocation of a baseball field, and concrete slabs for the press box, bleachers and the old San Dimas Canyon Golf Course clubhouse.

The clubhouse will serve as a multipurpose recreational building for summer recreation programs, evening meetings and community activities.

The two concrete slabs will be poured late this week or early next week. One slab for the bleachers and a small press box will be located behind the backstop of the baseball field. The other will be in the middle of the park and provide the base for the recreation building.

The grading will be finished by December and the irrigation system will be complete by January, Bailey said.

The master plan for the park at Juanita and Delancey avenues, adjacent to Ekstrand School, calls for playground equipment, two lighted tennis courts, two three-wall handball courts, a hardtop area for basketball and tetherball, two Little League baseball fields which combine into a single football field, an open area for picnicking, a fenced-in area and the recreation building.

"After the end of this fiscal year, the tennis courts, handball court, hardtop area and additional playground equipment will be all that remains to be done," said City Manager Bob Poff.

Bailey reported that the city is currently negotiating with the property owner adjacent to the freeway park for temporary access to six acres of slope land in the 13-acre park. The city purchased the site from the state.

"That particular facility will be an official size baseball field and a regulation softball field. The facility will be lighted," said Bailey. He said the location is easily accessible because of the freeway.

The area will accommodate about 1,000 spectators. The two baseball fields can also be combined into a football field and a playground area will be provided.

The engineer's estimate for development of the park is about $300,000. The first stage of development will be provided with the $22,000 in state funds.

Within the next two weeks, Joe's Plumbing of San Dimas will begin the installation of security lighting at Lone Hill Park. Five light poles will be placed in the south area of the 10-acre park where the playground equipment is stored.

Bailey pointed out that "hopefully, the security lighting will curb the high vandalism of sprinkler heads."

The system will include 17 poles when complete. The first phase costs about $3,300, and will be paid for with the park property development tax dollars. The park is located next to Gladstone School on Shellman and Juanita avenues.

Vinnell-Pauley Corp. has lived up to its obligations to install turf and sprinklers at Ladera Serra and Loma Vista parks in the Via Verde area, reported Bailey. The city took over maintenance responsibilities a few weeks ago.

Within the next week, Mark IV playground equipment and a sandbox will be installed at Ladera Serra, a three-acre site in the Crow-Pacific tract. The playground equipment, purchased two years ago, cost $8,000 and the sandbox is $1,000. Jensen Contractors will put in the playground equipment and city parks and recreation staff will do the sandbox. A hardtop court game area and concrete path are also planned this fiscal year.

Loma Vista, a one-acre park adjacent to the Voorhis campus, will have a sandbox and various playground equipment within the next month.

Both Via Verde parks are ready for use now by area youngsters.

The demolition of the old San Dimas Elementary School is 70 per cent complete, said the parks director. Delay in completion of the demolition project which began in July by Mead House Wrecking of Pasadena was attributed to equipment breakdown. Bailey predicted two to three weeks for the clearing of the site on Cataract Avenue south of Bonita Avenue.

The city has committed all of its Community Development Act funds for three years to the development of the neighborhood park on the site.

The city received $30,000 for 1974-75 from the federal legislation and will get another $44,000 for this fiscal year.

Five finalists chosen last week are Trisia Young, Lisa Valvo, Debby Johnson, Carolyn Anderson and Kristen Wheatley.

The senior boys will choose the queen, and she will be crowned at halftime Friday night at the Damien-Claremont homecoming football game.

A community rally will be held Friday afternoon at Memorial Park, and a parade is scheduled through Claremont.

The parade will go east on 10th Street, south on College Avenue, west on Bonita Avenue, and north on Mountain Avenue to Larkin Park.

The float competition in the parade will be judged on the theme, "Star-Spangled Homecoming."

The homecoming dance will be held Saturday.

Deputy D.A. is chosen

Rialto attorney Donald N. Feld has been appointed to the position of chief deputy district attorney for Central San Bernardino County by Dist. Atty. James Cramer.

Cramer, former chief deputy district attorney of the West End said, "Mr. Feld's outstanding qualities as a trial attorney, administrator, and supervisor amply qualify him for this key management position."

Feld, 39, received his juris doctor degree from the University of San Diego School of Law in 1967. He joined the staff of the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office as an investigator and then in January 1968, was admitted to the practice of law and promoted to deuty district attorney.

Feld teaches at the San Bernardino Sheriff's Academy, the Marshal's Academy and has taught special courses for the San Bernardino Police Department.

As chief deputy, Feld will be responsible for the prosecution of felony matters in the Central Superior Courts in San Bernardino and the supervision of 17 trial attorneys.

Showbeat

Screenplay has $econdary $ale

By DICK KLEINER

— When a person has written many screenplays based on novels and plays, why doesn't that person write an original screenplay?

The answer, says Jay Presson Allen, is one simple word — greed.

"I've never written an original screenplay," she says. "It's because of the money. I have a normal streak of greed and you have to realize the big money comes from the secondary sale of a book or a play to pictures. It pays to do it first as a play or book, and then have the movies buy it."

That's been the case with her new novel, a charmer called "Just Tell Me What You Want."

She started writing that one as a play, but three days into it she decided in this case the play form was too confining, so switched to a novel.

Now Warner Bros. has bought it — for $500,000 plus a hefty percentage. And she'll also get to do the screenplay.

Jay Presson Allen is an old Hollywood hand — she did the screenplay of "Cabaret" — but she doesn't live here. She and her husband, producer Lewis Allen, live in Connecticut.

And she has had a curious history, with lengthy periods of inactivity between bursts of productivity. When she was first married, she went through an entire decade without writing anything.

"I tended a husband and raised a daughter," she says.

Actually, she started out as an actress, but gave that up after a while.

"I found," she says, "that I just didn't enjoy acting. It was a blow, because that was what I thought I wanted to do. When I realized I didn't like it, I had to do something else.

"I had always been an omniverous reader. And I felt that I could write as well as some of the authors I'd read, so I began writing. I sold the first thing I ever wrote — a teleplay for the old Suspense series — and from that went into Philco, Playhouse 90 and then films."

She admits to having some outside — or inside — help in her writing. Her dreams, which she remembers, are often useful to her in her work.

"I had thought of the basic plot of 'Just Tell Me What You Want' five years ago," she says, "but I was hung up on a plot point for five years. I couldn't work it out somehow. Then, one morning, I woke up and I had had a dream and the whole thing was solved. I started writing it that day."

Now it's a hit and ready to be filmed. Mike Nichols will direct. The stars have not yet been set, because, she says, "we're aiming at a certain person."

Now she's out, promoting her book like all good authors.

SALLY STRUTHERS, the Gloria of TV's All in the Family, went to court for the right to appear in other shows and movies — and won.

String quartet to play at Cal State San B'no.

The Leslie I. Harris String Quartet, artists-in-residence at Cal State San Bernardino, will present a concert in the lecture hall of the Physical Sciences Building at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The members are Armen Turadian and Clyda Yedinak, violin; Victoria Shapiro, viola; and Lauren Green, cello.

Green, principal cellist for the Riverside and the San Bernardino symphony orchestras, is performing with the string quartet during the absence of permanent member Catherine Graff, who is on sabbatical leave in Paris.

Selections on the program are Quartet in G Major No. 2 by Beethoven; Quartet in B Flat Major by Mozart; and "Lullaby for String Quartet" by George Gershwin.

The Gershwin composition, while more formal in approach, is reminiscent of the lullaby in "Porgy and Bess."

Admission to the concert is $1.50. Students may attend without charge.

World's largest commercial building is the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, Ill.

UCLA to present rock 'n roll show

The Coasters, Dee Clark, Bobby Day and the former Raelets will take part in "Royce Rock 'n' Roll Reunion" in Royce Hall, UCLA, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Dodge Bolton will conduct the Music Unlimited Orchestra.

The Coasters will be the original members of that popular ensemble of the 1950s and 1960s, who are responsible for such hits as "Along Came Jones," "Poison Ivy," "Little Egypt," "Money Honey," "Yakety Yak" and "Charlie Brown."

Day has a similar record of hits, including his first in 1957, "Little Bitty Pretty One," followed the next year by "Rockin' Robin," "Over and Over," and "The Bluebird, the Buzzart and the Oriole" as well as the popular "That's All I Want" as the decade closed.

Clark became popular at the end of 1958 with "Nobody But You," and he continued the success with "Hey Little Girl," "How About That," "At My Front Door," "Raindrops," "I'm Going Back to School" and others.

The Raelets are the girls who used to back Ray Charles. They include Gwendolyn Berry, one of the original members, and Lillie Fort, who was the female voice on Charles' great hit, "Crying Time."

Bolton has played piano for Earl Bostic, Stuff Smith, Ketty Lester, Rex Stewart, Gloria Lynn and Louis Jordan, and has played organ for Frank Sinatra at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

Roto Rooter set at Citrus

The Roto Rooter Good Time Christmas Band, folk singer Peter Alsop and radio star Doctor Demento will take part in "Dementia," a pop concert, in the Citrus College Auditorium at 8 p.m. next Thursday.

Tickets are $3.50 general admission, $2.50 for Citrus students.

Doctor Demento is a top-hatted, tailcoated Los Angeles disc jockey with KMET who has a national radio show of bizarre hilarity. He discovered the six-man Roto Rooter Good Time Christmas Band, which also specializes in wild acts.

Alsop, making his third appearance at Citrus College, has performed at festivals and night spots from The Bitter End in New York to the Troubadour in Los Angeles.

Free movie slated

The American Savings & Loan Association, Montclair, will offer a free showing of the musical, "Finian's Rainbow," at Cinema I, Montclair, at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The musical fantasy stars Fred Astaire and Petula Clark.

Complimentary tickets can be obtained at the American Savings office at 9133 Central Ave.

Students plan music recital

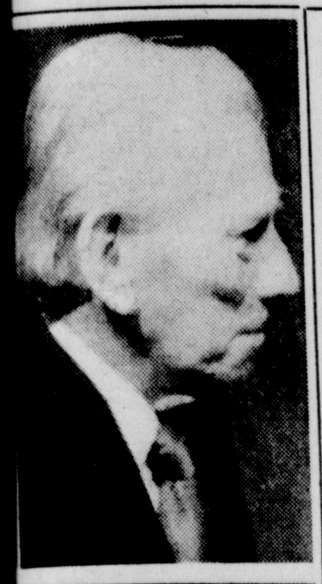

Five Scripps College students will present a recital in Pattison Hall at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

Laura Sandifer, who studies voice with Scripps lecturer Roger Ardrey, will sing selections by Gluck.

Julie Simon, Karen Clark and Cherry Caldwell, piano students of lecturer Robert W. MacSparran, will play selections by Brahms. Miss Caldwell will also play some Barber. Denali St. Amand will perform piano works by Debussy.

Achievement

The Nobel Prize of 1970 was awarded to Dr. Norman Borlaug, a farm scientists, who has played a leading role in the "green revolution." The committee specifically cited Borlaug's work in developing new wheat strains that produce bigger yields than the old varieties.

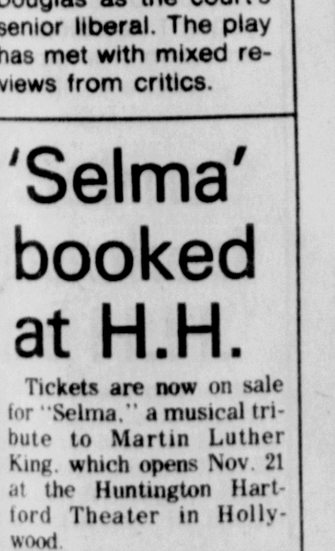

COURTING — Actress Jean Arthur was coaxed out of retirement by Melvyn Douglas, top, to star with him in "The First Monday in October," which opened last week on Broadway. The 67-year-old actress plays the first woman on the U.S. Supreme Court, with Douglas as the court's senior liberal. The play has met with mixed reviews from critics.

'Selma' booked at H.H.

Tickets are now on sale for "Selma," a musical tribute to Martin Luther King, which opens Nov. 21 at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood.

"Selma" is presented by executive producer Redd Foxx and stars Tommy Butler in the role of King. Butler is also credited with the book, music, and lyrics. Direction of the 25-member cast is by Mark Warren.

Performance schedule is Tuesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday evenings at 7 p.m.; matinees on Saturday and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

MICKEY GILLEY, country-western star from Houston, Tex., rescued the faltering Playboy Records with his smash hit, "Room Full of Roses." With a drop in its magazine and club revenues, the Playboy conglomerate now looks upon its recording arm as a major profit maker.

JOHNNY WONDER

If you have ever helped clean, or dust, furniture, you may have wondered where all the dust comes from. It seems to be a daily chore; because dust is always with us.

Millions of tons of dust settle upon the earth each year.

Dust is very tiny, dry particles that float in the air. Ordinary dust can be more than just tiny specks of dirt. It can be made of many things.

Dust may have in it pollen grains and spores from plants. It may also contain salt dust from a faraway sea, or cinders left when a meteor burned up on its way to the ground. It is almost sure to contain soot from the smoke you see pouring out of a chimney.

Dust is usually picked up by the wind and finally settles because of gravity.

Some is washed down with rain. Water vapor in the air collects on the tiny bits of dust to form water droplets, which form the clouds from which rain and snow fall.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

SHAPE AHOY! — Barry Moore as an old-time movie director gives the word to glamorous star Lucinda Dronberger as cowboy Billy Masters looks on in a scene from the Cal Poly production of "Merton of the Movies." The comedy about Hollywood's silent film days opens at the University Theater at 8 o'clock tonight, to play at that hour Friday and Saturday and the following weekend. The George Kaufman-Marc Connelly play opened on Broadway in 1922 and was later made into a movie starring Red Skelton.

At the Huntington

Recorder concert set

The Fipple Fluters, conducted by Ellen Perrin, will present a program of Renaissance music at the Huntington Library, San Marino, at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

The nine fluters will play recorders which are authentic replicas of the instruments played during the Renaissance period, and they will be dressed in costumes which are copies of clothes worn in England during the reign of Henry VIII.

The Fipple Fluters will play the sprightly music that was enjoyed by princely courts and also works popular with the common folk. Courtly dances by Simpson and compositions by Praetorius, the German composer-organist, will be performed.

Many pieces written for the recorder are also intended for dancing, and four dancers will perform with the Fipple Fluters at the Huntington.

In England and Germany during the 17th and 18th centuries, recorders were used to train birds to sing certain melodies. Among the upper classes it was a popular pastime to train birds to "record" the music, hence the instrument came to be named the "recorder." Using recorders, the composer Haydn taught a flock of birds to sing in unison, according to Miss Perrin.

The Fipple Fluters have been together for approximately three years. The group takes its name from the "fipple" or mouthpiece of the recorder. All the Fipple Fluters are amateur musicians and members of the Southern California Recorders Society. They come from diverse backgrounds and occupations and range in age from 20 to 70.

The Huntington, located at 1151 Oxford Road, is open to the public every day except Monday from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

DANCING DUO — Valery and Galina Panov, Russian ballet stars whose emigration to Israel made world headlines, will give three different performances at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, next Thursday and Nov. 15 at the Ambassador Auditorium in Pasadena. Tickets ranging from $25 to $8.75 are on sale at all agencies.
